SCHNEIDER ON STAND DENIES KILLING WIFE

Claims That He Did Not Poison Wife, and That He Loved Her Till Death

STATE ENDS CASE

Pathologist Testifies for State Death Caused by Arsenic Poisoning

Kasimir Schneider, local laborer, charged with having caused the death of his wife last June by administering poison to her, took the witness stand in his own defense today. Under guidance of his attorneys Schneider flatly denied that he poisoned his wife and answered scores of questions involving the circumstances of her illness and death with a calm voice.

A heavy scarf was still wrapped around Schneider's neck to protect him from a cold and he was dressed in an ordinary black suit. A small man, both in height and weight, wearing thick glasses and speaking in good English though of Russian-German extraction, the defendant betrayed no nervousness under the kindly questioning of his attorneys. His thick glasses proclaimed his near-sightedness.

He had not been on the stand long before Attorney Norton led him directly to the testimony offered for the state by Clara Fisher, who said that Schneider had asked her to be his housekeeper and that he wanted to get rid of his wife. He denied any such direct statements and attributed to him by Clara Fisher and scornfully denied that he wanted to marry her.

Loved Wife, Claim

"Did you love your wife up to the time she died?" he was asked.

"Yes."

"Did you tell Clara Fisher that you were looking for her to get her to marry you before your married four second wife?"

"No, sir."

"Were you sorry at any time you didn't marry Clara?"

"No, sir."

"Did you want to marry Clara?"

"I never did."

"Were you ever fond of her?"

"No, I don't care for girls like her."

Answering a question put directly: "Did you poison your wife?" Schneider answered "No."

He told of the time of his wife's death, on the morning of June 15 in their home on the south side here. He claimed he had not slept much all night because of their baby's illness, his wife's illness and a storm. He said it was raining, lightning was flashing and thunder roaring. He said he got up about 10 minutes after five in the morning when he heard the baby crying, looked into the room where his wife was, and he said he heard her taking her last gasp, just before life became extinct.

He said he started yelling, but objection stopped further declarations of this sort. He called the neighbors, he said, suggested a doctor be called, and talked with the neighbors. Later, he said, he saw the body at the undertaker's place and again later in the house. He said he called his mother-in-law from Sweet Briar, Morton county, after his wife died.

Pathologist Called

Among the witnesses called by the state before it rested yesterday was Dr. A. Massaghi, pathologist of the University of North Dakota, who testified that he believed from his examination of the walls of the stomach of the dead woman, that her death was caused by arsenic poisoning.

The defense's first witness was William Ode and others included John L. Schneider, brother of Kasimir; Matt Senner and Joseph Pettig. Dr. Ernest Mandan, called as expert witness by the defense, said that the symptoms of Mrs. Schneider's illness as described by Dr. Lupp appeared to indicate disease such as might cause natural death. During the testimony of the defense the $2,000 life-insurance policy carried on Mrs. Schneider by Kasimir as beneficiary was detailed to the jury.

Former Coroner Stroble, called this morning by the defense, was asked regarding a conversation Joseph Schwan had testified to for the state. In answering to a question as to whether Joseph Schwan told him that Kasimir Schneider was not good to his wife, he said Schwan did not answer exactly that way, and after objection halted further questioning of this kind, he said that he remembered Schwan saying that he didn't see what was wrong with Schneider—he never turned on the lights at night.

The theory of the defense was outlined by P. D. Norton in his statement to the jury before presentation of the defense's case began.

Details History

He detailed Schneider's life history. Schneider, he said, was born in Russia about 40 years ago; married in Russia to Magdalena Jemel, who died in this country; came to the United States in 1907; first settled at Strasburg in Emmons county, where he was engaged in farming, and lived there until he came to Bismarck to be employed by the Wacker Transfer Company and the Northern Pacific railroad. ## FLORIDA GOVERNOR PEEVED AT N. D. SOLONS ACTION; NESTOS SAYS NO HARM MEANT BUT ACTION WANTED Legislature Sought to Help Florida Executive to Correct Conditions; Is Interpretation of North Dakota Executive on Senate Action—Hardee Fears Bad Publicity for Florida.

Expressing regret if injury should result to the State of Florida through publicity from passage of a resolution by the North Dakota legislature deploring the death of Martin Tabort, Cavalier county boy alleged to have died in a Florida prisoner-contract camp as a result of flogging, Governor R. A. Nestos today said in a letter to Governor Hardee of Florida "I am satisfied it was not intended by those who are responsible for sponsoring and passing the resolution."

"I feel," Governor Nestos continued, "that their only thought was to aid you and others who are anxious to have this unfortunate condition corrected and to have your legislative body enact laws that would make such a thing largely impossible for the future."

"I sincerely hope that this will be accomplished by the resolution since it has been adopted, and that no other consequences may flow therefrom."

The letter to Governor Hardee was in answer to a communication received by Governor Nestos yesterday expressing resentment at the tone of the resolution as it was passed by the North Dakota State Senate. Governor Nestos had not seen the resolution, he said, since it was to be sent to Florida by the Secretary of State rather than by the Governor.

Received Too Late

Governor Hardee, in his letter, which was received two days after the legislative session closed, said that unfavorable publicity for the state of Florida would result from the passage of the resolution, by adding: "The senate of the North Dakota legislature, however, it seems has been good enough to absolve the state from responsibility by virtue of the following provision contained in the said resolution, to-wit: 'The state of Florida is in no manner party to the great wrong and that as represented its own legislature will feel the same sense of indignation as is felt by North Dakota represented by its legislature.'"

Governor Hardee continued: "The considerable language used by the senate in the closing paragraph of the resolution and above quoted is appreciated. However, that does not cure the harm and injury that the passage of such resolution does the state of Florida. We have more than 1,500 convicts incarcerated in our prisons. There will occur occasional instances where the authorities in charge might be accused of improper treatment of the convicts. I assume that similar situations will occur in every state of the Union. Perhaps it has occurred in North Dakota. It is the duty of the state not to retain in its service any man who would treat the convicts inhumanly and Florida does not retain them. My objection to the resolution of your legislature is that a single instance has been seized upon as a basis for a resolution which (Continued on Page Three.)

AWARDS CUT BY COURTS IN LOVE SUITS

Juries Now Appraise Delayed Wedding Bells at $1 to $25

BUT KISS VALUE RISES

Nurse Is Granted $20,000 For Five She Says Doctor Stole

NEA Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, March 6.—Kisses up; Hearts down!

Thus runs the current price trend on Chicago's love market.

From a series of court decisions, just handed down here, it has become evident the attitude of juries toward blasted affections, which cry aloud to be mended with gold in breach of promise actions, is undergoing a radical change.

Thwarted darts of Cupid are worth but from $1 to $25; a puncture, judicial price fixers have decreed.

But when it comes to a case of "she who gets kissed" against her will, the brotherhood of 12 good men and true seems Johnny on the spot to avenge the damage with unlimited love.

For proof, run your eyes over the following instances just ground from the heart mill:

BROKEN HEARTS:

Miss Ethel Jay French vs. John Wood Brooks-Ladd. He asked $50,000. Jury gave her $1. Court said it was enough.

Mrs. Nettie La-ser vs. Abe Bender. She asked $25,000. Jury gave her $1. Court held the amount sufficient.

Mrs. Anna Mureus vs. Hyman Wittenberg. He asked $50,000. Jury gave her $25. Judge refused new trial.

STOLEN KISSES:

Miss Mathilde Benkhart, nurse, vs. Dr. Justin L. Mitchell. She asked $25,000 for five kisses she said the physician had imprinted on her "arms, face, neck and shoulders."

Neither party loved the other. But a jury gave Miss Benkhart $20,000, or $4,000 a kiss. Verdict upheld.

Judge David, sitting in the local Superior Court, has officially pronounced the law has no right to set a price on love.

He made this fact known when setting a side a $7,500 verdict which a "too free" panel had granted Mrs. Beatrice A. Kullen in a breach of promise case.

Which perhaps is one of the reasons why, during the past three weeks, more than 25 impending breach of promise suits, asking damages totalling close to $200,000, have been settled quietly out of court.

ONE-THIRD OF PROPERTY IN N. D. EXEMPTED

Estimates Place Total Exempted Property at Over $600,000,000

Property exempted from taxation under existing laws amounts to the huge total of $600,000,000, according to a rough estimate given by Lyman A. Baker, deputy state tax commissioner. The figures are based in part upon census and other reports and in part upon estimates alone, and follow:

Public property—$50,000,000; charitable, religious, lodge, hospital, etc. property—$25,000,000; farm improvements $200,000,000 as given in the census report; homes and certain classes of personal property—$80,000,000; money and credits—$250,000,000.

The total equals more than one-third of the total assessed valuation of the state, which is $1,800,000,000. The legislature at the session just closed removed homes and some classes of personal property aggregating $80,000,000 from the list of property exempted.

CHICAGO POLICE CONTINUE DRIVE ON UNDERWORLD

Chicago, Mar. 7.—With a special detail of 145 men on duty, Chief of Police Fitzmorris' order to stamp out commercialized vice in Chicago went into effect in several police districts.

Although the commanding officers in the districts had requested special details aggregating almost 600 police, Chief Fitzmorris said without comment cut down their requests to the detail of 145 men.

With the putting into effect of the order, some investigators said many disorderly houses voluntarily closed their doors.

MANDAN PLANS NEW HOME FOR MASONIC LODGE

Mandan, Mar. 7.—Members of Mandan lodge No. 8, A. F. and A. M., the other Masonic bodies concurring, last night authorized a special building committee, August Timmerman, chairman, to proceed immediately with the selection of plan and devising of means for financing the erection here this summer of a new Masonic temple to cost approximately $100,000.

The building will be three stories in height and about 70 feet by 14 feet in size.

BISHOP BURNS WILL LECTURE AT M. E. CHURCH

Bishop of Helena Area to Discuss "Living Christ in Modern World"

BANQUET IS HELD

Bishop Charles Wesley Burns of the Methodist Episcopal church, Helena area, will deliver a lecture-sermon tonight at the McCabe Methodist Episcopal church here on the subject, "The Living Christ in the Modern World." The sermon will be preceded by a brief song service at 7:30 p. m., a devotional message by Rev. F. W. Kedzie and an illustrated lecture on the orient by Perry Hanson.

Bishop Burns arrived last night to attend the annual conference of the Bismarck district of the church, too late for the banquet, but in time to speak generally to the delegates and others at the service which followed in the auditorium at which Rev. Anthony of Beach spoke.

Two hundred and fifty people were served at the banquet given last night in the basement of the church, which recently had been remodeled, the banquet being served by the general ladies' aid. So large was the attendance that some of those present waited for "the second table." The banquet was made a jolly affair with Rev. S. F. Hallvard, pastor of the church, as toastmaster. Toasts were responded to by Geo. M. Regal, Rev. H. Styles Harris, district superintendent; Dr. Perry Hanson and Dr. Jones, both missionaries in China, and C. L. Bovard, secretary of the centenary movement of the Helena area. Mrs. John A. Larson sang a solo, with Miss Ruth Rawley as accompanist.

Rev. Bovard spoke of the new "World Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church" and impressed upon those present that this movement "successor to the Centenary movement offered great possibilities for service."

The conference program for this afternoon included: "The Other Side of the World," by Missionary G. W. Gates of Africa; "The Future of China in the World Service Program," by Dr. Perry Hanson; round table discussion with Dr. Bovard as leader; "Kingdom Debating Society on Christian Stewardship," with Bishop Burns leading the discussion.

There will be a dinner at the Grand Pacific hotel at 6:15 p. m.

SEARCH FOR TEN WOMEN WHO ESCAPE

Kansas City, Mo., Mar. 7.—Police here were searching today for ten women who last night escaped from the women's reformatory at the Kansas City municipal reformatory at Leeds, Mo. The women are believed to have climbed to freedom through a dormitory window, the bars of which had been sawed.

COURT AWARDS ALIMONY TO AGED MAN

Los Angeles, Mar. 7.—Frederick Moon, 70 years old, sued for divorce by Lou Ethel Moon, 40, on the ground of cruelty today was awarded alimony of $15 a month by the superior court. Moon described himself as "once a poor next a farmer and now just a weak, old man."

"Mrs. Moon is strong and able to work," the court said, "while it is evident Moon is unable to work. She married him for better or worse, she must stick to her bargain."

MINE EXPLODES IN IRELAND KILLING ONE

Dublin, Mar. 7.—A land mine exploded at the door of the income tax office in Bedford Place today, killing Detective Patrick Kelley and wounding the office. Adjoining property, including the office of the national railway men's union, was damaged.

Kelley came to the door when the raiders knocked and was blown to pieces.

DEFENCE CLAIMS VICTORY.

Marion, Ill., Mar. 7.—Attorneys for the defense in the second Herriot trial claimed a victory today in a ruling by Judge D. T. Hartwell regarding testimony directed against Bert Grace, one of the defendants charged with the murder of Antonio Mucedda. It was said that the ruling practically eliminated Grace from the case.

GRAND JURORS TESTIFY IN BANK CASES

Testimony Given by Sveinbjorn Johnson Is Attacked By Defendants

EXAMINE PROF. HARD

Judge McKenna Will Rule on Admissibility of Testimony Later

Fargo, March 7.—Attempts on the part of the defense in the trial of H. J. Hagen, one of the defendants in the Scandinavian-American bank failure case before Judge George E. McKenna of Napoleon, to show by testimony of grand jurors that conduct and testimony on the part of Sveinbjorn Johnson as Attorney-General before the Cass county grand jury, which returned the indictment, was improper failed today when Judge McKenna sustained an objection made by Special Assistant Attorney-General George A. Bangs of Grand Forks.

The question came up during the examination of H. A. Hard of Fargo, one of the grand jurors. Judge W. S. Lauder of counsel for defense sought to bring out from the witness what Mr. Johnson's alleged testimony was when Bangs objected.

The testimony of grand jurors is going forward today in the case, but Judge McKenna has reserved his decision as to the admissibility of such evidence until all such testimony offered has been put in to evidence.

ROAD ISSUES TO PEOPLE'S VOTE, IS PLAN

Meeting of General Membership Will Take Action on Subject Soon

The circumstances attending the defeat of the highway bills in the Lower House appear to have emphasized, to the State Good Roads Association which sponsored them, the necessity of their ultimate if not early enactment, says an association bulletin.

The association seems to consider that it is under obligation more than ever to its membership and the public generally that the proposed highway legislation be provided.

Correspondence and reports coming to the office of the secretary are said to substantiate the early assertion that the adverse House action by no means represented the sentiment of the people at least as far as the road question is concerned.

Plans are rapidly being made by the organization to increase its already large and growing membership. An early general meeting of the members is being planned to go into the matter fully and determine the proper future course to pursue.

The rumor is persistent that a one-year whirlwind campaign should be waged to enact the proposed legislation at the Presidential primaries in March, 1924.

It has not yet been determined whether the general meeting now to be held will take place in Bismarck or Valley City but it is more than probable that Valley City will be chosen.

COURT AWARDS ALIMONY TO AGED MAN

Los Angeles, Mar. 7.—Frederick Moon, 70 years old, sued for divorce by Lou Ethel Moon, 40, on the ground of cruelty today was awarded alimony of $15 a month by the superior court. Moon described himself as "once a poor next a farmer and now just a weak, old man."

Charges Republicans of Minnesota Spent Million

St. Paul, Mar. 7.—Charges of Senator James A. Carley of Wabasha county that the Republican state central committee spent one million dollars in 1920 to further their political campaign in this state today were characterized as "propaganda" by C. R. Adams, chairman of the Republican state central committee.

TURKS WON'T ACCEPT TREATY CONTINUE PARLEY

Constantinople, Mar. 7.—Advices from Ankara state that the Turkish national assembly has decided that the Lausanne treaty is unacceptable. The government, however, was authorized to continue negotiations on condition that questions be settled in conformity with the complete independence of the Turkish nation and all occupied territory be evacuated immediately after the signature of peace.

WILL BE MAJOR PLANK IN YANKS CAMPAIGN

Veterans Will Turn Whole Attention to Problem of Foreign-Born

OWSLEY DIVULGES PLANS

Says Ex-Fighters Will Abolish "European Settlements" Here

BY MORRIS QUINN.

Indianapolis, March 7.—How the American Legion soon will embark on a sweeping Americanization program that will deal forever with segregated foreign settlements in American cities was detailed for the first time here by Colonel Alvin Owsley, national commander of the legion.

The World War veterans' program, Owsley said, will aim—

To restrict immigration for at least five years by Congressional enactment.

To limit immigration thereafter "to such aliens as we can assimilate."

To reform conditions at Ellis Island to the end that treatment of incoming aliens will not be such as to render them antagonistic to America.

To launch a nation-wide campaign of education in which every American will be asked to join in Americanizing unassimilated aliens.

Four Platform Planks.

"Our present program is fourfold," the legion commander said. "We are working for hospitalization of veterans, their rehabilitation, a bonus and Americanization."

"Before long the first three planks automatically will be carried out. We then shall turn our undivided attention to Americanization."

"First of all we shall strive to wipe out every 'little Italy,' 'little Greece,' 'little Poland' and every other kind of segregated foreign settlement."

"This we shall carry out through education of aliens. Already hundreds of members of the American Legion in all parts of the country voluntarily are acting as teachers of English and civil government."

"We shall establish free night schools for those who work by day and day schools for those who work by night. We shall call upon Americans living in districts adjoining those where foreigners live to bring America to the alien."

To Boost Playgrounds.

"We shall use our influence for the establishment of community playgrounds and civic centers where the foreign-born will be asked to come and play with our children."

"Further, we shall ask the federal government to set aside funds to be used in teaching prospective citizens the elements of citizenship."

"Already we have initiated a legislative program in every state which forbids instruction in any foreign tongue before a pupil has passed from the eighth grade and which makes a course in civil government, state and national, compulsory in elementary schools."

"While this process of assimilation is going on, we shall ask the government to ban further immigration—for at least five years."

Then we should like to see the government work out a system of limitation of immigration which would admit only those foreigners whom we easily can make into Americans."

Owsley declared definitely that as "assimilable immigrants" he meant those from the north of Europe and added as an afterthought, "and such of those from southern and middle Europe as are willing to accommodate themselves to American institutions."

"Restriction," the commander said, "should be based not on sentiment but on common sense."

HOG BURIED IN SNOW

Sheldon, N. D., March 7.—Digging into a drift from which he noticed steam arising, Earl Clayton found a purebred Chester White hog which had been missing 13 days. Gaunt but still alive, the animal, which had been buried by a snowstorm, quickly recovered and is now as lively as ever.

Another farmer reports finding a turkey still alive after several days imprisonment in a snowbank.

GERMANY TO STAND PAT ON RUHR POLICY

No Compromise Is Keynote of Speech by Chancellor Cuno

LITTLE PROGRESS MADE

Calls Attention to Fact that France Has Gained Nothing

Berlin, Mar. 7.—Chancellor Cuno's declaration that Germany would hold out in the Ruhr and his intimation that no overtures will be made "so long as the occupation renders it impossible for us to estimate our own capacity" rang through the nation today as the people appraised the statement, addressed to the Reichstag.

Asserting that France had obtained nothing in all the weeks of occupation Herr Cuno talked at talk of negotiations so long as the situation remains as it is.

"We will agree to no settlement involving illegally occupied territory from Germany," he said, "or any agreement that does not restore to freedom Germany wrongfully punished."

"I do not even now appeal to foreign countries. I merely note that after seven weeks of fighting for our rights and for the peace of the world we still stand alone."

IN HOPELESS DEADLOCK

London, March 7.—Reuters Cologne correspondent learns on the highest authority that French and British representatives are still completely deadlocked over the question of moving French troops through the British zone.

General Sir Godley, commanding British troops at Cologne, and Gen. Payot, French chief of transportation in the occupied region, held two conferences on Monday.

At these, the correspondent says, Gen. Godley flatly refused the French demand, whereupon Gen. Payot said he would appeal to London.

The French ask the right to run trains between Bonn and Nuss, which would involve a 15-minute shunting operation on the part of every train in the Cologne central station. The British contend, the correspondent asserts, this would lead to a strike and the German staff, making the British position untenable.

The correspondent understands that the German railway men in the British zone are not only under orders to strike in case the French take over the railroad but to inaugurate widespread sabotage.

NIP COUP D'ETAT

Berlin, Mar. 7.—A coup d'etat planned to occur about the middle of the month has been nipped in the bud by the arrest of about 15 persons at Munich, according to authorities.

ABANDON TRIP

Paris, Mar. 7.—Charles M. Schwab has been compelled by the state of his health to abandon his trip to the Ruhr and unoccupied Germany and will sail for home on the steamship Aquitania from Cherbourg-Saturday.

NO POLICE PROTECTION

Essen, Mar. 7.—In consequence of absence of a police force shops and houses are entered by marauders and residents of the city are helped up and robbed. The fire brigade have taken over duties of the police. The French will not permit them to carry arms so they have equipped themselves with rubber hose, loaded with lead, and wooden swimmers. This armament has proved ridiculous.

The firemen are very active in their new duties and find eager assistants in the communists, who seem anxious to show that they are not connected with the disorders.

TWO KILLED IN RAID ON 'MOONSHINERS'

New Orleans, Mar. 7.—The bodies of Wesley Crain and Wiley Pierce, deputy sheriffs, missing since last Friday when they left Franklinton to make a raid on a moonshine still in the swampy bottom that place in the Atchafalaya have been located, according to a telephone message from Franklinton to the Times-Picayune shortly before 4 o'clock this morning.

ASK RATIFICATION

Paris, Mar. 7.—The Paris government will ask the chamber of deputies to vote ratification of the treaty signed at the Washington armament conference, Minister Beraud told the chamber this morning when Vice Admiral Gaczerelli asked the status of the Washington pact.

BELIEVE EPIDEMIC OF TYPHUS ENDED

Samara, March 7.—Typhus, which scourged the Volga Valley and claimed thousands of victims from one end of Russia to the other last year, has appeared this winter only in localities and, unless the unexpected occurs, medical authorities consider the danger of epidemics on a vast scale is ended.

There are several areas in the Volga Valley and the Ukraine where the 1922 harvesters fared poorly, and in these famine already is raging again. Nothing like the terrible conditions of the ghastly winter of 1921-1922 exist, however, and although eight million persons are listed as needing complete or partial support by charity, even the most pessimistic observers do not expect that the horrors will be repeated in the proportions of last year.

$400,000 ON LOSSES PAID

State Treasurer Completes 17
Counties on Hail Warrants

Payment of $400,000 1922 hail warrants in 17 counties of the state has been made by the state treasurer's office. The alphabetical order is reversed in this year's payments, the 17 counties beginning with Williams and including Pierce. The clean-up of this many counties was made possible by the purchase by many Twin City financial houses of many warrants in the counties.

Payments on hail warrants are considerably ahead of the same date last year, as payment of 1920 warrants was not completed and payment of 1921 warrants not begun, until April of last year. Payment of additional 1922 warrants may be slowed up somewhat by the fact that $600,000 is due the Minnesota Loan and Trust Company from last year's purchases, on April 1.

Admiral Prindle Dies From Illness Received in War

Washington, Mar. 7.—Rear-Admiral Franklin C. Prindle, United States Navy, retired, died in the naval hospital here yesterday from uremic poisoning, which physicians said was brought about by disabilities incurred during the Civil War. He was 81 years old.

At the outbreak of the Civil War, Admiral Prindle entered the navy and participated in many engagements. He retired in 1901.

AWARDS CUT BY COURTS IN LOVE SUITS

Juries Now Appraise Delayed Wedding Bells at $1 to $25

BUT KISS VALUE RISES

Nurse Is Granted $20,000
For Five She Says
Doctor Stole

NEA Staff Correspondent.
Chicago, March 6.—Kisses up; Hearts down!

Thus runs the current price trend on Chicago's love market. From a series of court decisions, just handed down here, it has become evident the attitude of juries toward blasted affections, which cry aloud to be mended with gold in breach of promise actions, is undergoing a radical change.

Thwarted darts of Cupid are worth but from $1 to $25 a puncture, judicial price fixers have decreed.

But when it comes to a case of "she who gets kissed" against her will, the brotherhood of 12 good men and true seems Johnny on the spot to avenge the damage with unblinking lucidity.

For proof, run your eyes over the following instances just ground from the heart mill:

BROKEN HEARTS:
Miss Ethel Jay French vs. John Wood Brooks-Ladd. He asked $50,000. Jury gave her $1. Court said it was enough.

Mrs. Nettie Lasser vs. Abe Bender. She asked $25,000. Jury gave her $1. Court held the amount sufficient.

Mrs. Anna Marcus vs. Hyman Wittenberg. He asked $50,000. Jury gave her $25. Judge refused new trial.

STOLEN KISSES:
Miss Mathilde Benkhart, nurse, vs. Dr. Justin L. Mitchell. She asked $25,000 for five kisses she said the physician had imprinted on her "ears, face, neck and shoulder."

Neither party loved the other. But a jury gave Miss Benkhart $20,000, or $4,000 a kiss. Verdict upheld.

Judge David, sitting in the local Superior Court, has officially pronounced the law has no right to set a price on love.

He made this fact known when setting aside a $7,500 verdict which a "free press" had granted Mrs. Beatrice A. Kullen in a breach of promise case.

Which perhaps is one of the reasons why, during the past three weeks, more than 25 impending breach of promise suits, asking damages totaling close to $200,000, have been settled quietly out of court.

ONE-THIRD OF PROPERTY IN N. D. EXEMPTED

Estimates Place Total Exempted Property at Over $600,000,000

Property exempted from taxation under existing laws amounts to the huge total of $600,000,000, according to a rough estimate given by Lyman A. Baker, deputy state tax commissioner. The figures are based in part upon census and other reports and in part upon estimates alone, and follow:

Public property—$50,000,000; charitable, religious, lodge, hospital, etc. property—$25,000,000; farm improvements $200,000,000 as given in the census report; homes and certain classes of personal property—$80,000,000; money and credits—$250,000,000.

The total exceeds more than one-third of the total assessed valuation of the state, which is $1,308,000,000. The legislature at the session just closed removed homes and some classes of personal property aggregating $80,000,000 from the list of property exempted.

CHICAGO POLICE CONTINUE DRIVE ON UNDERWORLD

Chicago, Mar. 7.—With a special detail of 145 men on duty, Chief of Police Fitzmorris' order to stamp out commercial vice in Chicago went into effect in several police districts.

Although the commanding officers in the districts had requested special details aggregating almost 600 police, Chief Fitzmorris said without comment that their requests to the detail of 145 men.

MANDAN PLANS NEW HOME FOR MASONIC LODGE

Mandan, Mar. 7.—Members of Mandan lodge No. 8, A. F. and A. M., the other Masonic bodies concurring, last night authorized a special building committee, August Timmerman, chairman, to proceed immediately with the selection of plan and devising of means for financing the erection here this summer of a new Masonic temple to cost approximately $100,000.

The building will be three stories in height and about 70 feet by 14 feet in size.

BISHOP BURNS WILL LECTURE AT M. E. CHURCH

Bishop of Helena Area to Discuss "Living Christ in Modern World"

BANQUET IS HELD

Bishop Charles Wesley Burns of the Methodist Episcopal church, Helena area, will deliver a lecture-sermon tonight at the M. E. church here on the subject, "The Living Christ in the Modern World." The sermon will be preceded by a brief song service at 7:30 p. m., a devotional message by Rev. F. W. Kedzie and an illustrated lecture on the origin by Perry Hanson.

Bishop Burns arrived last night to attend the annual conference of the Helena district of the church, too late for the banquet, but in time to speak generally to the delegates and others at the service which followed in the auditorium at which Rev. Anthony of Beach spoke.

Two hundred and fifty people were served at the banquet given last night in the basement of the church, which recently had been remodelled, the banquet being served by the general Ladies Aid. So large was the attendance that some of those present waited for the second table. The banquet was made a jolly affair with Rev. S. P. Halyard, pastor of the church, as toastmaster. Toasts were responded to by Geo. M. Register, Rev. H. Styles Harris, district superintendent; Dr. Perry Hanson and Dr. Jones, both missionaries in China, and C. L. Boyd, secretary of the centenary movement of the Helena area. Mrs. John A. Larson sang a solo, with Miss Ruth Rawley as accompanist.

Rev. Boyd spoke of the new "World Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church," and impressed upon the present that this movement was a successor to the Centenary movement offered great possibilities for service.

The conference program for this afternoon included: "The Other Side of the World," by Missionary G. W. Gates of Africa; "The Future of China in the World Service Program," by Dr. Perry Hanson; round table discussion with Dr. Boyd as leader; "Kingdom of God on Earth," with Bishop Burns leading the discussion.

There will be a dinner at the Grand Pacific hotel at 6:15 p. m.

SEARCH FOR TEN WOMEN WHO ESCAPE

Kansas City, Mo., Mar. 7.—Police here were searching today for ten women who last night escaped from the women's reformatory at the Kansas City municipal reformatory at Leads, Mo. The women are believed to have climbed to freedom through a dormitory window, the bars of which had been sawed.

MINE EXPLODES IN IRELAND KILLING ONE

Dublin, Mar. 7.—A land mine exploded at the door of the income tax office in Beresford Place today, killing Detective Patrick Kelley and wounding the office. Adjoining property, including the offices of the national railway men's union, was damaged.

Kelley came to the door when the raiders knocked and was blown to pieces.

DEFENCE CLAIMS VICTORY.
Marion, Ill., Mar. 7.—Attorneys for the defence in the second Herriot trial claimed a victory today in a ruling by Judge D. T. Hartwell regarding testimony directed against Bert Grace, one of the defendants charged with the murder of Antonio Mulveto. It was said that the ruling practically eliminated Grace from the case.

Judge McKenna Will Rule on Admissibility of Testimony Later

Fargo, March 7.—Attempts on the part of the defense in the trial of H. J. Hagen, one of the defendants in the Scandinavian-American bank failure case before Judge George E. McKenna of Napoleon, to show by testimony of grand jurors that conduct and testimony on the part of Sveinbjorn Johnson as Attorney-General before the Cass county grand jury, which returned the indictment, was improper failed today when Judge McKenna sustained an objection made by Special Assistant Attorney-General George A. Bangs of Grand Forks.

The question came up during the examination of H. A. Hard of Fargo, one of the grand jurors. Judge McKenna ruled that the defense sought to bring out from the witness what Mr. Johnson's alleged testimony was when Bangs objected.

The testimony of grand jurors is going forward today in the case, but Judge McKenna has reserved his decision as to the admissibility of such evidence until all such testimony offered has been put in to evidence.

ROAD ISSUES TO PEOPLE'S VOTE, IS PLAN

Meeting of General Membership Will Take Action on Subject Soon

The circumstances attending the defeat of the highway bills in the Lower House appear to have emphasized, to the State Good Roads Association which sponsored them, the necessity of their ultimate if not early enactment, says an association bulletin.

The Association seems to consider that it is under obligation more than ever to its membership and the public generally that the proposed highway legislation be provided. Correspondence and reports coming to the office of the secretary are said to substantiate the early assertion that the adverse House action by no means represented the sentiment of the people at least as far as the road question is concerned.

Plans are rapidly being made by the organization to increase its already large and growing membership. An early general meeting of the members is being planned to go into the matter fully and determine the proper future course to pursue. The rumor is persistent that a one-year whirlwind campaign should be waged to enact the proposed legislation at the Presidential primaries in March, 1924.

It has not yet been determined whether the general meeting soon to be held will take place in Bismarck or Valley City but it is more than probable that Valley City will be chosen.

COURT AWARDS ALIMONY TO AGED MAN

Los Angeles, Mar. 7.—Frederick Moon, 70 years old, sued for divorce by Lou Ethel Moon, 40, on the ground of cruelty today was awarded alimony of $15 a month by the superior court. Moon described himself as "once a poet next a farmer and now just a weak old man."

Mrs. Moon is strong and able to work," the court said, "while it is evident Moon is unable to work. She married him for better or worse; she must stick to her bargain."

Charges Republicans of Minnesota Spent Million

St. Paul, Mar. 7.—Charges of Senator James A. The government, however, was authorized to continue negotiations on condition that questions be settled in conformity with the complete independence of the Turkish nation and all occupied territory be evacuated immediately after the signature of peace.

WILL BE MAJOR PLANK IN YANKS CAMPAIGN

Veterans Will Turn Whole
Attention to Problem of Foreign-Born

OWSLEY DIVULGES PLANS
Says Ex-Fighters Will Abolish "European Settlements" Here

BY NORRIS QUINN.
NEA Staff Writer.

Indianapolis, March 7.—How the American Legion soon will embark on a sweeping Americanization program that will do away forever with segregated foreign settlements in American cities was detailed for the first time here by Colonel Alvin Owsley, national commander of the legion.

The World War veterans' program, Owsley said, will aim—
To restrict immigration for at least five years by Congressional enactment.

To limit immigration thereafter "to such aliens as we can assimilate." To reform conditions at Ellis Island to the end that treatment of incoming aliens will not be such as to render them antagonistic to America.

To launch a nation-wide campaign of education in which every American will be asked to join in Americanizing unassimilated aliens.

Four Platform Planks.
"Our present program is fourfold," the legion commander said. "We are working for hospitalization of veterans, their rehabilitation, a bonus and Americanization."

"Before long the first three planks automatically will be carried out. We then shall turn our undivided attention to Americanization. "First of all we shall strive to wipe out every 'little Italy,' 'little Poland,' 'little Greece' and every other kind of segregated foreign settlement."

"This we shall carry out through education of aliens. Already hundreds of members of the American Legion in all parts of the country voluntarily are acting as teachers of English and civil government."

"We shall establish free night schools for those who work by day and day schools for those who work by night. We shall call upon Americans living in districts adjoining those where foreigners live to bring America to the aliens."

To Boost Playgrounds.
"We shall use our influence for the establishment of community playgrounds and civic centers where the foreign-born will be asked to come and to bring their children."

"Further, we shall ask the federal government to set aside funds to be used in teaching prospective citizens the elements of citizenship. "Already we have initiated a legislative program in every state which forbids instruction in any foreign tongue before a pupils has passed from the eighth grade and which makes a course in civil government, state and national, compulsory in elementary schools."

"While this process of assimilation is going on, we shall ask the government to bar further immigration—for at least five years."

Ask Restriction.
"Then we should like to see the government work out a system of limitation of immigration which would admit only those foreigners whom we easily can make into Americans."

Owsley declared definitely that as "assimilable immigrants" he meant those from the north of Europe and added as an afterthought, "and such of those from southern and middle Europe as are willing to accommodate themselves to American institutions."

"Restriction," the commander said, "should be based 'not on sentiment but on common sense.'"

HOG BURIED IN SNOW 13 DAYS, ALIVE YET

Sheldon, N. D., March 7.—Digging into a drift from which he noticed steam arising, Earl Clayton found a purebred Chester White hog which had been missing 13 days. Gaunt but still alive, the animal, which had been buried by a snowstorm, quickly recovered and is now as lively as ever.

Another farmer reports finding a turkey still alive after several days imprisonment in a snowbank.

GERMANY TO STAND PAT ON RUHR POLICY

No Compromise Is Keynote of Speech by Chancellor
Cuno

LITTLE PROGRESS MADE

Calls Attention to Fact that France Has Gained Nothing

Berlin, Mar. 7.—Chancellor Cuno's declaration that Germany would hold out in the Ruhr and his intimation that no overtures will be made "so long as the occupation remains," renders it impossible for us to estimate our own capacity for fighting the nation today as the people appraised the statements addressed to the Reichstag.

Asserting that France had obtained nothing in all the weeks of occupation Herr Cuno talked at talk of negotiations so long as the situation remains as it is.

"We will agree to no settlement severing illegally occupied territory from Germany," he said, "or any agreement that does not restore to freedom Germany wrongfully punished."

"I do not even now appeal to foreign countries. I merely note that after seven weeks of fighting for our rights and for the peace of the world we still stand alone."

IN HOPELESS DEADLOCK London, March 7.—Reuters Col- ogne correspondent learns on the highest authority that French and British representatives are still completely deadlocked over the question of moving French troops through the British zone.

General Sir Godley, commanding British troops at Cologne, and Gen. Payot, French chief of transportation in the occupied region, held two conferences on Monday. At the end of the conference, says the Gen. Godley flatly refused the French demand, whereupon Gen. Payot said he would appeal to London.

The French ask the right to run trains between Bonn and Nauss, which would involve a 15-minute shunting operation on the part of every train in the Cologne central station. The British contend, the correspondent asserts, this would seriously hamper traffic and would lead to a strike of the German staff, making the British position untenable.

The correspondent understands that the German railway men in the British zone are not only under orders to strike in case the French take over the railroad but to inaugurate widespread sabotage.

NIP COUP D'ETAT
Berlin, Mar. 7.—A coup d'etat planned to occur about the middle of the month has been nipped in the bud by the arrest of about 15 persons at Munich, according to authorities.

ABANDON TRIP
Paris, Mar. 7.—Charles M. Schwab has been compelled by the state of his health to abandon his trip to the Ruhr and unoccupied Germany and will sail for home on the steamship Aquitania from Cherbourg Saturday.

NO POLICE PROTECTION Essen, Mar. 7.—In consequence of absence of a police force shops and houses are entered by marauders and residents of the city are help up and robbed. The fire brigade have taken over duties of the police. The French will not permit them to carry arms so they have equipped—themselves with rubber hose, loaded with lead, and wooden revolvers. This armament has proved ridiculous.

The firemen are very active in their new duties and find eager assistants in the communists, who seem anxious to show that they are not connected with the disorders.

TWO KILLED IN RAID ON 'MOONSHINERS'

New Orleans, Mar. 7.—The bodies of Wesley Crain and Wiley Pierce, deputy sheriffs, missing since last Friday when they left Franklinton to make a raid on a moonshine still in the swamps between that place and Bogalusa have been located, according to a telephone message from Franklinton to the Times-Picayune shortly before 4 o'clock this morning.

ASK RATIFICATION Paris, Mar. 7.—The Paris govern- ment will ask the chamber of de- puties to vote ratification of the treaty signed at the Washington armament conference, Minister Bertardi told the chamber this morning when Vice Admiral Geraud asked the status of the Washington pact.

CHICAGO OVERLAND BRANCH BREAKS ALL AUTO SHOW SALES RECORDS

519 Cars Sold at Retail During the Annual Automobile Show Week. One Chicago Dealer Placed Order for Entire Trainload.

All automobile show sales records were eclipsed by the Overland Motor Company of Chicago, the Willys-Overland Branch in Chicago with the announcement at the conclusion of the annual automobile show week by President A. C. Barber of the Overland Motor Company, that his organization and the Chicago dealers had sold 519 cars at retail during the show week from January 27 to February 3 inclusive.

This record more than doubled the record set by the New York Branch which sold 230 cars during the annual New York automobile show, a record, which at that time was considered wonderful. But Chicago surpassed New York, more than doubled the retail sales.

"In all my experience with Willys-Overland," said President Barber, "I have never seen such enthusiasm, or such sales activity. Dealers and public alike received our new line with such wholehearted support that we were astounded. The results in sales made at retail are proof of this statement."

And not for the fact that we had the most disagreeable weather of the entire winter, below zero weather in fact the last two days of the show, I believe that we would have topped our sales record of 519 retail sales.

David Gordon of the Standard Motor Company of Chicago, one of the dealers operating under the Chicago Branch, placed an order for an entire trainload of Willys-Overland cars, which has since been shipped to him.

R. A. Lindbaugh, another dealer under the Chicago Branch, whose car contract for 1923 was 61 cars, sold during the show week 46 cars at retail, or 75 percent of his quota for the year in 2 percent of the time. Mr. Lindbaugh is proprietor of the Central Garage and Machine Company at Maywood, Illinois.

To aid the dealers in making immediate deliveries of the cars sold during the show week, Mr. Barber chartered a special train of seven Pullman cars during the show, and sent 479 men to Toledo, who drove a like number of Overland and Willys-Eight cars back through the country to Chicago.

In addition, Mr. Barber placed one order for 1,142 cars, which will supply the immediate demands for immediate deliveries by dealers in the Chicago territory.

During the middle of the show week, Mr. Barber made the following prediction in the Chicago newspaper: "We venture to predict that our record at the end of the week will be a record of sales in excess of any ever recorded by any cars in our class for a like period anywhere." The result has certainly borne out that prediction.

MRS. ROSEN OF MANDAN IS HELD UP

Bandits Dressed as Women
Try to Steal Her
Valuables

St. Paul, March 6.—Police today were searching for two bandits dressed in women's clothes who held up Mrs. A. Rosen of Mandan, North Dakota, searched her and then ordered her to "get on." When she was accosted Mrs. Rosen attempted to pass between the bandits, but one of them slapped her so sharply, that, she said, there seemed to be a masculine force in the blows.

A diamond ring and diamond ear pendants were not taken. No mention was made of what the robbers obtained.

CITY ELECTION APPROACHING

Two Commissioners, Police
Magistrate and Justice
To Be Chosen

With the legislative session discussion in politics locally has turned to the city election, which will be held on Tuesday, April 3. Commissioners will be selected for four-year terms, a police magistrate and one justice of the peace.

Registration days will be March 20th and March 27th. Petitions for nomination must be filed by March 14th.

Commissioners John Larson and John French, whose terms expire, will be candidates for re-election. Mr. Larson said that he would stand for re-election and Mr. French said that he expected petitions bearing his name would be filed.

Thus far no other candidates for the city commission have appeared. Police Magistrate W. C. Cashman said he would be a candidate for re-election. It is expected that there will be several candidates for this position.

An illustrated lecture on the world will be given at the church this evening by Rev. C. L. Howard, D. D.

LIEUT. GOV'NOR OF SOUTH DAKOTA STARTS CAMPAIGN

Mitchell, S. D., Mar. 6.—The first gun in the state political campaign was fired today when Lieut. Gov. Carl Gunderson of Mitchell announced his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination at the statewide primary next fall.

"My chief purpose," declared Mr. Gunderson, "is to carry out the agricultural program upon which I have been working for several years. I realize that this program cannot be accomplished by South Dakota alone but it must be done along the lines already agreed on by the general grain growing states in the Northwest.

"However, if this state is to share in the benefits of this program it is

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous For Bismarck People to Neglect

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they so often get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health will be gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease may follow as the kidneys get worse. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills, which are so strongly recommended right here in Bismarck.

Mrs. J. B. Saylor, 309 Mandan Ave., Bismarck, says: "From the experience I have had with Doan's Kidney Pills I can safely recommend them for disordered kidneys. I had an attack sometime ago and my eyes would smart and my back ached and bothered me a great deal. My kidneys didn't get regularly, either. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and they were not long in relieving the trouble."

CAPT. ELDRED DIES HERE

Special Coffin Needed to Bear
Remains of Prison
Captain

A special coffin was ordered here today to bear the remains of Lee Eldred, 68, night captain at state penitentiary, back to New York State. Eldred was six feet five inches tall and weighed about 240 pounds just before his illness. He had been in prison work most of his life and had worked in number of the largest prisons in the country.

Mr. Eldred succumbed from pneumonia in a local hospital yesterday afternoon, and had been ill but a few days.

He had been at the state prison here for about five years, and was highly regarded by officials and guards there. Among the prisoners he had worked in were Sing Sing, Deer Lodge, Montana, South Dakota prison and Iowa prison.

He had no family here.

GORKY HAS HAD ENOUGH OF NEW DAY IN RUSSIA

London, March 6.—Maxim Gorky, the Russian writer, has had enough of revolution. He is in a sanatorium near Berlin, recovering, he says, from "an over-exposure to Russian communism."

If revolution breaks out in Germany he will move to Prague, he recently told a Czech newspaper correspondent.

Gorky hopes to become editor and publisher of a world review devoted to art and science in which politics will find no place.

SALUDES CASE GOES TO JURY

New York, Mar. 6.—Oscar Martellier, slain broker, and Mrs. Paullette Saludes, who is on trial charged with the shooting, were described by the defendant's attorney in summing up his case today as a modern David and Bathsheba. The infidelity of the defendant to her husband was admitted, the attorney said, but he thought it excusable as a weakness handed down through the ages. He pictured Martellier as David, betraying Mrs. Saludes' husband and of making an attempt to destroy him

This remarkable plan takes the guess out of automobile upkeep cost

This is the first time in history that you can buy an automobile and know exactly how much it will cost to keep it in proper running condition.

Such a revolutionary measure is made possible only by the sturdy construction of today's extremely low priced Overland and its marvelous record of performance.

No other car in the world equals the economy of the Overland. No other car has ever sold under such an unlimited guarantee.

We have put into operation the flat rate basis for all repairs on our cars, telling the customer just what his bill would be before he authorizes the work. Many other big companies are adopting this plan.

NEARLY TWO BILLION EGGS ARE PRODUCED

More Chickens Raised on American Farms in 1922 Than Ever Before

Washington, March 7.—More chickens were raised and more eggs produced last year than in 1921 but their farm value was not so great. The combined farm value of chickens raised and eggs produced in 1922 is estimated at $854,207,000, by the United States Department of Agriculture. The value in 1921 was $699,820,000.

About 543,000,000 chickens were raised on farms in 1922, with a farm value of $354,199,000, as compared with 510,000,000 chickens raised in 1921 valued at $362,253,000. Egg production totaled 1,962,374,000 dozen in 1922 of a value of $500,008,000, as compared with 1,837,486,000 dozen eggs with a value of $538,567,000 in 1921.

Of the chicken eggs produced in 1922, large quantities were consumed in industries in the manufacture of other than food products, and about 113,000,000 dozens were used to produce chickens, the department says.

The average farm price of chickens raised in 1922 was 65c per fowl, compared with 71 cents in 1921, and with 86½c in 1920. The average farm price of chicken eggs was 25.5 cents a dozen in 1922, compared with 29.3 cents per dozen in 1921 and with 44.4 cents in 1920.

It is estimated that there were 412,000,000 chickens on farms January 1, 1922, a time of year when the number of chicks is low. There were 386,000,000 chickens on farms January 1, 1921, and on January 1, 1920, there were 300,000,000 according to census figures.

FORMER STATE OFFICIAL DIES

Grand Forks, N. D., March 7.—Word has been received here of the death, due to pneumonia, at Reed Springs, Mo., of William H. Standish, formerly of Grand Forks, and at one time attorney general of North Dakota. He was buried in Reed Springs.

Mr. Standish was born in the state of New York in 1842, and claimed to be a direct descendant of Miles Standish, of the Mayflower. He came to North Dakota in 1883, settling at Bartlett, where he made his home for three years. He went from there to Dakota, and was a resident of that place when in 1892 he was elected on the fusion ticket for attorney general of North Dakota, a position which he held for two years.

Following his retirement from the office of attorney general, Mr. Standish came to Grand Forks to make his home, and to open a law practice.

DILLAGE TRIAL SET FOR MAR. 20

Lignite, N. D., March 7.—Leo Dillage, Burke county farmer of near here, is scheduled to go on trial at Estevan, Sask., on March 20, for the alleged murder of Paul Matloff, at the Bienfait, Sask., railroad station last October. The court of King's Bench opens at Estevan on this date, and the Dillage case is the first one set for trial.

TALKS TO MOTHERS OF FLAPPERS

By Congresswoman Huck
No. 3 — Secret of Safeguarding Daughters

By Mrs. Winnifred M. Huck
Congresswoman-at-Large From Illinois

(Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)
Modernism, as expressed by the check-to-check dance, smoking by girls and other extravagances, is to my mind foolish, but not necessarily dangerous.

Personally I am not in favor of woman "wooing nicotine," as the phrase goes. This from a health standpoint alone, however.

It cannot be argued that woman, merely because she is a woman, should not smoke. To admit that would be to grant that man, merely because he is man, ought not do things women do.

This age is setting aside a lot of foolish Victorian ideas premised on accepted inequality between the sexes.

Principally 1923 stands for emancipation—though it is to be regretted that some few have misconstrued liberty for license, and thus prejudice the thinking world against those who seek to use their new freedom to good advantage.

The flapper is not to be misjudged by that type of parasite who exploits new manners for evil ends.

The flapper may be a bit intoxicated with the joyful ecstasy of her liberty.

Like a captive just released from long bondage she perhaps rushes about, too glad in her moment of freedom to realize what it is all about or to care to comprehend the reason for it all.

Give her time and she is going to settle down, none the worse for her gambol on the green, but much wiser and stronger for the experience.

Rouge on the cheek or powder on the nose is by no means a sign of instability of the wearer.

Given a good mother, a good home and right environment all around, the girl or boy entering into the new-fangled world today will very early learn to discriminate between what will harm and what not.

Extremes to every fad, to every epoch, to every reconstruction, are not good. They are bad. But they are a negligible minority among our young folks today.

Let our boys and girls play, I say. Give them your love and especially your confidence hold their love and confidence, and nothing can befall them.

Talk with your children; treat them as pals, not as mere subjects to obey you.

That is the whole secret to the thing.

You know what was said about a soft answer. It turns away wrath—and coupled with love—makes mutual confidants of fathers and mothers, sons and daughters.

See to it that your boy or girl is leading a healthful normal life with plenty of wholesome athletic and social recreation.

Former Bowman Man Sentenced

After the robbers left the bank, McCain, an officer of the institution, and other citizens, pursued the bandits in an auto, and overtook them when the latter had trouble with their own auto. The bandits opened fire, fatally wounding Mr. McCain.

NEW ENGLAND VOTES TO BUILD A LIGHT PLANT

New England, N. D., March 7.—At the election held here the city of New England, by an overwhelming majority, voted to go into the business of furnishing electricity for light and power for the community. By a vote of 115 to 2 the city council was empowered to proceed immediately with plans which call for the purchase of the wiring system of the city from the Aaby Light and Power company, the building of a power plant which will be located in the proposed new city hall building, and the installing of a new power plant, which it is thought will consist of two semidiesel oil burning engines, one 37½ h. p. and one 75 h. p., connected by direct drive to the new generators which will make electricity to furnish 24-hour service.

Several days before the election, arrangements had been completed for the sale of 17,000 of municipal bonds to the Wells-Dickey company. The six per cent 20-year bonds sold at par, the Wells-Dickey company paying for the printing, and assuming fees of attorneys passing on the bonds, legally.

ARTISTS WORK AHEAD DESPITE LIVING COSTS

Paris, March 7.—The high cost of living has not discouraged young artists says Paul Signac, president of the Society of Independent Artists, whose thirty-fourth annual exposition opened recently.

Here are represented 1610 artists who exhibit nearly 5000 works in the huge galleries of the Grand Palais. Of them all, only one was unable to pay the fee of fifty francs for hanging the picture. No prizes are offered to exhibitors, nor is there any jury to pass on pictures. All comes may hang their pictures without respect to light. They are hung in the alphabetical order of their makers' names. Nor is nationality considered. Fully one-third of the exhibitors are foreigners.

While President Signac affirmed that the exhibition showed the trend of art back to normal colors and old art forms, this statement was hardly borne out by the paintings shown. There were cubic houses, cubic trees, cubic people and cubic carpets, along with many other cubic things that visitors could not identify.

The striking point of the exhibition to the casual art critic appeared to be its liberty of expression, involving all the art forms known and applied for the past ten centuries. Many of the paintings were done in dark colors, and looked for all the world like old masters.

MILLIONS FOR AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION WORK

Washington, March 7.—There was allocated for cooperative agricultural extension work through-out the country in 1922-23, approximately $18,821,000 of which the Federal Government contributed $5,880,000 under the provisions of the Smith-Lever Act. Congress by direct appropriation to the Department of Agriculture made available $1,028,000 in addition for farmers' cooperative demonstration work and $45,000 for extension work making a total from Federal sources of $6,953,000. The remaining $11,868,000 was derived from sources within the state, including $5,241,000 appropriated by State legislatures and funds under control of the State agricultural colleges, $5,654,000 provided by the different counties, and $1,973,000 from other sources, mostly local.

worst cases of kidney trouble are the result of germ diseases. In every infectious disease the system is alive with poisonous germs and bacteria. The kidneys are overwhelmed with the rush of new work; they break down, become congested, inflamed and diseased. Too often the real trouble is lost sight of until some dangerous kidney ailment sets in. If your kidneys are falling behind, don't wait for serious trouble. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills today. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"To the Advantage of Consumers and the Public"

A COURT in Wisconsin declared recently that "the marketing policies of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) work to the advantage of consumers and the public."

The LaFollette investigating committee in Washington brought out facts which proved the same thing.

The investigation of this Committee developed, we believe, just why the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been uniformly successful, and why it has within the comparatively few years of its existence contributed so materially to our national prosperity—more particularly the prosperity in the Middle West.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) attributes its success primarily to the fact that it earnestly desires to render the public a complete cycle of essential service, from oil well to refinery, to the consumer.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a large retailer of its own products. It maintains for this purpose a distribution system which for size, thoroughness, and efficiency is unequalled in the world. It maintains and expands its business solely on a basis of quality and service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has steadfastly maintained the policy of minimizing the spread between manufacturing costs and retail selling prices. This has meant, and means today a low price for gasoline and other petroleum products as compared with other essential commodities. A glance through any Department of Labor Bulletin featuring comparative prices for necessities will demonstrate this fact.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud of its success. It believes that its methods are exceptionally efficient. It believes that in many instances they have been a valuable contribution to the country's economic progress. It believes that the Company's activities redound to the advantage of the consumer and the public.

FASCISTI NEED 200,000 MUSKETS TO BAR RADICALS

Rome, March 7.—"The Fascist government needs 200,000 muskets to keep all the radicals in their places," said Premier Mussolini to a delegation of the Italian Arditi, or Daredavils, as they are sometimes called, in a recent address.

"I am counting on all the ex-service men, and therefore, on the Arditi, who have been our best fighters," continued the Premier. "I am sure almost all of you will join the voluntary militia. We need the regular army to be prepared for the defense of the nation, for this is its purpose; we need a police force in order to protect ourselves against lawbreakers. The Fascist government also has need of 200,000 muskets to keep all the radicals in their places."

"I hope, therefore," continued the Fascist chief, "to see you in the front rank of the Fascist legions, which are a magnificent reserve of courage, of power and of faith, and on which not only the government, but the whole nation can surely count. I thank you, and beg you to consider me, as head of the government, a daredavil who does not stop before any obstacle, and overcomes obstacles if it be necessary and required by the supreme interests of the nation."

SCHNEIDER ON STAND DENIES KILLING WIFE

er's first wife was the mother of six children, he said, and his second wife bore him one child. The first wife, he said, died in a local hospital as the result of a Caesarian operation.

Regarding the testimony of expert witness Mr. Norton said:

"We shall show from the testimony of expert witnesses that the adhesions found on the body of the deceased were not at all necessarily caused, as contended by the state, by the taking into the body over a period of two or three months of a strong irritant, such as arsenic poisoning, but that the adhesions found in the body of the deceased by the doctors who caused the autopsy, could have been brought about by a number of reasons, among these being: 1—A chronic inflammation of the stomach and bowels; 2—A chronic catarrhal inflammation of the stomach and bowels; 3—The taking of Watkins' Liniment."

Means of Getting Poison

Regarding other means of the defendant's wife securing poison to cause her death the attorney for the defense said in part:

"We shall show that one of the neighbors with whom the deceased visited frequently was Joseph Schwan, and that the said Joseph Schwan, according to his own testimony and statements in the preliminary examination, had a cabinet in his home containing a number of poisons; that he handled various poisons and that it was his custom to deal in the handling of poisons. We shall show that in the preliminary examination the said Schwan refused to answer questions as to what poisons he had in his house and where he had these poisons, and that the answers to inquiries concerning the poison kept in his house were given in an evasive and hesitating manner, indicating guilty knowledge."

"The defendant will show further how this neighbor with whom the deceased visited had at or about the time of her death arsenic poisons about the place, which could have been secured knowingly by the deceased, and that her death could have occurred from the taking of these poisons, knowingly to her or through accident."

WOULD ABOLISH ALL REBATING

Fargo, March 7.—Steps to abolish rebating and other "unethical practices by life insurance agents in North Dakota were taken at a meeting of the executive committee of the North Dakota Life Underwriters' association in Fargo yesterday. The action was the outgrowth of plans inaugurated at the annual meeting of the association in Fargo last week.

A recommendation to co-operate with Commissioner of Insurance S. A. Olmstead in the enforcement of the new state law providing for licensing life insurance agents of all companies doing business in the state except mutuals, was adopted.

This recommendation and others of a minor nature, were made by a committee consisting of Walter Scott Risk of Fargo and E. L. Simpson of McVillie, who were appointed at the annual meeting as a special committee to study out plans for raising the ethical standard of the life insurance business in North Dakota.

SOCIETY SPECULATING UPON CHOICE OF BIDESMAIDS FOR WEDDING OF KING GEORGE'S SONS

London, Mar. 6.—The women who are to be invited to the wedding of the Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon are perhaps most concerned with deciding what to wear, but millions of other women in England and elsewhere are just now more interested in guessing who will be named as bridesmaids.

So far no names have been announced, but those on the outside hear from those on the inside that there will be eight of them, including three princesses. Two of these princesses, Maud, youngest daughter of the Princess Royal, and Lady Mary Cambridge, niece of the Queen, were bridesmaids at the wedding of Princess Mary last year. Lady Mary Cambridge, the 16-year-old daughter of the Earl and Countess of Athlone, will be the third princess to attend the bride. Another of Princess Mary's bridesmaids, Lady Louis Gordon-Lennox, so the gossip says, will also be in the wedding party at the coming royal nuptials.

Among the other young women of the aristocracy who, one hears, will be similarly honored, are to be at least two daughters of Scottish peers. Lady Mary Fox Strangways and Lady Katherine Hamilton, daughter of the Duke of Abercorn, also are mentioned as likely selections.

Pending official announcement of the wedding program, a wave of advance reports sweeps daily through drawing rooms and tea shops. These talkers have it there will be a "best man," but the three brothers of the royal bridegroom will attend him as his "supporters." The ceremony will take place in Westminster Abbey, the Archbishop of Canterbury officiating, assisted by the Bishop of London. The reception probably will be at Buckingham Palace.

Any number of landed aristocrats have placed their country estates at the disposal of the Duke of York and his fiancée for their honeymoon, no plans for which have yet been announced. The gossip says these proffers are meager compared to the wedding present which Earl Farnham contemplates making. It is said he will hand over his beautiful home, White Lodge, Richmond, for the use of the Duke and his bride, and will endow the place sufficiently to maintain it. If this is done the problem of finding a place to live—a big one when one is a Prince and has to live up to it even if his pocketbook is slim—will have been sweetly solved.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

Editor Tribune:

I used to go to Sunday School and I became familiar with such sentiments as:

"I want to be an angel,
And with the angels stand,
A crown of glory on my head,
And a song book in my hand."
These sentiments don't seem to fit me now.

"I want to be a publican,
And with the farmers stand,
The signs of labor on my brow,
And a whiplash in my hand."

As a boy I was a religious youngster. I early became possessed of a piece of religion. I was born in the wilderness but spent many years in civilization, and then became a hermit on a farm in North Dakota. I journeyed from the hermitage to the banks of the River of Life at Bismarck. I met there a Pharisee who was a minister, and I asked him if he had any religion, and he said that he dealt in religion and that he dispensed it every Sunday at his church. I said, "I will come to your church for I would like to know more of your religion." I asked him if he ever went out into the River of Life and he said, "Oh no, there is much contagion out there." He said he had a little pond back from the river which was all disinfected and he paddled around on it in his canoe. I asked him if he kept his people in the straight and narrow path, and he said, "Oh no, they keep me there."

I had heard of a certain politician, a publican, and was curious to see him, and I asked him, "Have you any religion?" And he said, "Blamed if I know." I said, "Do you ever go out into the River of Life?" He said, "Yes, but I do it in it on my neck." I said, "What did you go out there for?" And he said, "To teach a bunch of rube farmers how to paddle their own canoes." I said, "Did you do it?" He said, "You bet I did, they are going so fast I can't keep up."

I wondered if either of these fellows had any communion to teach the people.

I have suspected another politician of being a Pharisee, and I confess to you I would like to take it out of him. I would like to put on the boxing gloves with him. You see he is smaller than I am, and I fancy that after the scrumming we would be so mixed up that you couldn't tell which was "publican" and which was "pharisee." If there was any pharisee left in him and he would still taunt me with being an idealist while he stood on his superior pinnacle of practicability I confess to you I would swear one awful oath and challenge him in some other line of human endeavor until I found someone else in which could effectively sit on him and make him shake hands with me on the grounds of a common humanity.

STRINGENT LAWS FOR DANCE HALLS

St. Paul, Mar. 7.—The Minnesota state senate today passed a bill providing for stringent regulation of dance halls which speakers declared have become "hell-holes of iniquity" in many parts of Minnesota.

The bill provides that no dance where admission is charged shall be held without a permit. In cities a permit would be issued by the governing authorities of the city. In modest dancing, turning off of lights for dances, drinking or permitting the drinking of intoxicating liquors within 1,000 feet of a dance hall are prohibited.

Violation of any provision of the law is declared a misdemeanor.

More Chickens Raised on American Farms in 1922 Than Ever Before

Washington, March 7.—More chickens were raised and more eggs produced last year than in 1921 but the farm value was not so great. The combined farm value of chickens and eggs produced in 1922 is estimated at $851,207,000, by the United States Department of Agriculture. The value in 1921 was $820,000.

About 542,000,000 chickens were raised on farms in 1922, with a farm value of $451,199,000, as compared with 510,000,000 chickens raised in 1921 valued at $362,271,000. Egg production totaled 1,662,556,000 dozen in 1922, valued at $500,008,000, as compared with 1,517,186,000 dozen in 1921 with a value of $378,907,000.

Of the chicken eggs produced in 1922, large quantities were consumed in industries in the manufacture of other than food products, and about 113,000,000 dozens were used to produce chickens, the department says.

The average farm price of chickens raised in 1922 was 65c per pair, compared with 71 cents in 1921, and with 66c in 1920. The average farm price of chicken eggs was 27 1/2 cents a dozen in 1922, compared with 29 1/2 cents per dozen in 1921 and with 44 1/2 cents in 1920.

It is estimated that there were 412,000,000 chickens on farms January 1, 1922, a time of year when the number of chickens is low. There were 486,000,000 chickens on farms January 1, 1921, and on January 1, 1920, there were 360,000,000 according to census figures.

FORMER STATE OFFICIAL DIES

Grand Forks, N. D., March 7.—Word has been received here of the death, due to pneumonia, at Reed Springs, Mo., of William H. Standish, formerly of Grand Forks, and at one time attorney general of North Dakota. He was buried in Reed Springs.

Mr. Standish was born in the state of New York in 1842, and claimed to be a direct descendant of Miles Standish, of the Mayflower. He came to North Dakota in 1883, settling at Minot, where he made his home for many years. He went from there to Bismarck, and was a resident of that city when in 1892 he was elected to the position of attorney general of North Dakota, a position which he held for two years.

Following his retirement from the office of attorney general, Mr. Standish came to Grand Forks to make his home, and to open a law office.

DILLAGE TRIAL SET FOR MAR. 20

Minot, N. D., March 7.—Lee Dillage, Burke county farmer of Minot, is scheduled to go on trial at Minot, N. D., on March 20, for the alleged murder of Paul Dillage at the Bismarck, Sask., railroad station last October. The trial of Dillage is the first one set for trial.

TALKS TO MOTHERS OF FLAPPERS

No. 3 — Secret of Safeguarding Daughters

By Mrs. Winifred M. Huck, Congresswoman-at-Large From Illinois

(Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.) Modernism, as expressed by the check-to-check dance, smoking by girls and other extravagances, is to my mind foolish, but not necessarily dangerous.

Personally I am not in favor of woman "wearing nicotene," as the phrase goes. This from a health standpoint alone, however. It cannot be argued that woman, merely because she is a woman, should not smoke. To admit that would be to grant that man, merely because he is man, ought not to do things women do.

This age is setting aside a lot of foolish Victorian ideas, and is accepting inequality between the sexes.

Principally 1923 stands for emancipation—though it is to be regretted that some few have misconstrued liberty for license, and thus prejudice the thinking world against those who seek to use their new freedom to good advantage.

The flapper is not to be misjudged by that type of parasite who exploits new manners for evil ends.

The flapper may be a bit intoxicated with the joyful ecstasy of her liberty.

Like a captive just released from long bondage she perhaps rushes about, too glad in her moment of freedom to realize what it is all about or to expect to comprehend the reason for it all.

Give her time and she is going to settle down, none the worse for her gambol on the green, but much wiser and stronger for the experience.

Rouge on the cheek or powder on the nose is by no means a sign of instability of the wearer.

Given a good mother, a good home and right environment all around, the girl or boy entering into the new-fangled world today will very early learn to discriminate between what will harm and what not.

Extremes to every fad, to every epoch, to every reconstruction, are not good. They are bad. But they are a negligible minority among our young folks today.

Let our boys and girls play, I say. Give them your love and especially your confidence hold their love and confidence, and nothing can befall them.

Talk with your children; treat them as pals, not as mere subjects to obey you.

That is the whole secret to the thing.

You know what was said about a soft answer. It turns away wrath—and coupled with love—makes mutual confidence of fathers and mothers, sons and daughters.

See to it that your boy or girl is leading a healthful normal life with plenty of wholesome athletic and social recreation.

NEW ENGLAND VOTES TO BUILD A LIGHT PLANT

New England, N. D., March 7.—At the election held here the city of New England, by an overwhelming majority, voted to go into the business of furnishing electricity for light and power for the community.

By a vote of 115 to 2 the city council was empowered to proceed immediately with plans which call for the purchase of the wiring system of the city from the Aaby Light and Power company, the building of a power plant which will be located in the proposed new city hall building, and the installing of a new power plant, which it is thought will consist of two semidiesel oil burning engines, one 37 1/2 h.p. and one 75 h.p., connected by direct drive to the new generators which will make electricity to furnish 24-hour service.

Several days before the election, arrangements had been completed for the sale of 17,000 of municipal bonds, to the Wells-Dickey company. The six per cent 20-year bonds sold at par, the Wells-Dickey company paying for the printing, and assuming the cost of attorneys passing on the bonds, legally.

ARTISTS WORK AHEAD DESPITE LIVING COSTS

Paris, March 7.—The high cost of living has not discouraged young artists says Paul Signac, president of the Society of Independent Artists, whose thirty-fourth annual exposition opened recently.

Here are represented 1610 artists who exhibit nearly 5000 works in the huge galleries of the Grand Palais. Of them all, only one was unable to pay the fee of fifty francs for hanging this picture.

No prizes are offered to exhibitors, nor is there any jury to pass on pictures. All comers may hang their creations. The spirit of fairness goes to the extent of arranging the pictures without respect to light. They are hung in the alphabetical order of their makers names. Nor is nationality considered. Fully one-third of the exhibitors are foreigners.

While President Signac affirmed that the exhibition showed the trend of art back to normal colors and old art forms, this statement was hardly borne out by the paintings shown. There were cubic houses, cubic trees, cubic people and cubic carpets, along with many other cubic things that visitors could not identify.

The striking point of the exhibition to the casual art critic appeared to be its liberty of expression, involving all the art forms known and applied for the past ten centuries. Many of the paintings were done in dark colors, and looked for all the world like old masters.

MILLIONS FOR AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION WORK

Washington, March 7.—There was allocated for cooperative agricultural extension work throughout the country in 1922-23, approximately $18,821,000 of which the Federal Government contributed $5,880,000 under the provisions of the Smith-Lever Act. Congress by direct appropriation to the Department of Agriculture made available $1,028,000 in addition for farmers' cooperative demonstration work and $45,000 for extension work making a total from Federal sources of $6,953,000. The remaining $11,868,000 was derived from sources within the states, including $5,241,000 appropriated by State legislatures and funds under control of the State agricultural colleges, $5,654,000 provided by the different counties, and $1,973,000 from other sources, mostly local.

Grip Left You a Bad Back?

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

Are you getting over a cold or grip only to find yourself a victim of back-ache? Are you suffering headaches, too, dizzy spells, a dull, tired worn-out feeling and annoying kidney irregularities? Then don't delay! Physicians agree that a vast number of the worst cases of kidney trouble are the result of germ diseases. In every infectious disease the system is alive with poisonous germs and bacteria. The kidneys are overwhelmed with the rush of new work; they break down, become congested, inflamed and diseased. Too often the real trouble is lost sight of until some dangerous kidney ailment sets in. If your kidneys are falling behind, don't wait for serious trouble. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills today. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"To the Advantage of Consumers and the Public"

A COURT in Wisconsin declared recently that "the marketing policies of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) work to the advantage of consumers and the public."

The LaFollette investigating committee in Washington brought out facts which proved the same thing.

The investigation of this Committee developed, we believe, just why the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been uniformly successful, and why it has within the comparatively few years of its existence contributed so materially to our national prosperity — more particularly the prosperity in the Middle West.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) attributes its success primarily to the fact that it earnestly desires to render the public a complete cycle of essential service, from oil well to refinery, to the consumer.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a large retailer of its own products. It maintains for this purpose a distribution system which for size, thoroughness, and efficiency is unequalled in the world. It maintains and expands its business solely on a basis of quality and service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has steadfastly maintained the policy of minimizing the spread between manufacturing costs and retail selling prices. This has meant, and means today a low price for gasoline and other petroleum products as compared with other essential commodities. A glance through any Department of Labor Bulletin featuring comparative prices for necessities will demonstrate this fact.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud of its success. It believes that its methods are exceptionally efficient. It believes that in many instances they have been a valuable contribution to the country's economic progress. It believes that the Company's activities redound to the advantage of the consumer and the public.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

STEPPING IN RIGHT DIRECTION

News that vetoes by Governor Nestos of appropriations of the legislative assembly may exceed one million dollars is good news. The action ought to have its effect not merely upon the state taxes but also upon all of the political subdivisions of the state. Unless the state sets an example in driving back toward the pre-war level of public expenditures in the state it cannot expect the political subdivisions to do so; and unless all agree upon a right policy of economy, the benefits which flow to a developing state through low taxation, which not only ease the burden of those building homes in the state but is a distinct advantage in encouraging immigration of farmers, will be lost. State appropriations are still far from the pre-war level, and may never reach that point again, but "revision downward" in appropriation is encouraging.

It would be unfortunate, however, if the huge interest charges needed to meet bond issues on industrial enterprises which was increased by $2,000,000 by the last legislature as to the Grand Forks mill and elevator, and delinquencies on rural loans, should require such expenditures that economies felt necessary in the state must result in the future in a curtailment of the educational institutions or proper care of departments in the state. The interest charges now amount to many hundreds of thousands of dollars a year, and in addition, the legislature created a Home Building Association deficit tax and provided that an annual interest levy must be made to cover all bond issues of the future.

The state is bound to pay dearly for its experiment in socialism.

FOILED!

The Loyal Order of Americans, organization trying to counteract the Ku Klux Klan, grows rapidly. Quite natural, by the law of cause and effect.

Every action has an equal and contrary reaction. And an organization-for always brings into existence an organization-against. Just a question of time until they cancel each other.

It is possible that the Loyal Order of Americans will become more powerful than the Ku Klux Klan. Maybe it will blot the Klan out of existence. Then would come a third organization, to counteract the Loyal Order of Americans.

Nature has a shrewd way of keeping everything balanced, in the long run. The hot sun of summer evaporates water from the ocean. The vapor drifts inland, condenses, falls as rain, forms rivulets, runs into creeks, on into rivers—and back into the sea.

The balance restored, the process starts over again.

You see this law working in the activities of people. A society-against always rises to oppose the society-for. A political party comes into power with opposition crushed, the field to itself. But things soon change. Opposition sprouts up, grows until it wrests control from the old leaders. Democrats and Republicans follow each other in an eternal cycle, though the names of the parties change as the centuries slip by.

Nature loves a certain normal. She insists on it. Whenever humanity gets either above or below that normal, nature starts evening things—restoring balance, equilibrium.

The cycle of destruction and restoration of balance is what keeps men, collectively, busy from cradle to grave.

This natural law seems harsh to the visionaries. It seems equally harsh to the conservatives. The visionaries correspond to the water evaporating from the ocean. The conservatives are like the rain rushing the vapor back to its source, the sea.

The Law of Balance works inexorably in all human lives. When you get too happy and contented, move cautiously, for the chances are that you are "riding for a fall." And when you are down in the mouth and everything goes wrong, keep heart, for nature soon will restore the balance and bring happiness, the reaction from misery.

The sharpest razor dulls itself in shaving, and has to be sharpened again. Such is life.

BOOTLEG

It's costing over 15 million dollars a year to enforce prohibition. This is shown by figures furnished to Congress. That's getting off cheaply, for the nation, considering the sum that used to be rung up on the bar room cash register.

One of these days there may be a national referendum on prohibition, probably at a presidential election, though the chances are at least two-to-one against. The election would be decided by the vets who at the last minute might change their mind and vote dry. The key to liquor sentiment is in the commonly heard expression: "Glad my boy and the rest of the rising generation won't be able to get the stuff."

BEER

Nine-tenths of the alcohol drunk by the thirsty before prohibition was in beer, according to Commander Evangeline Booth.

The return of "real" beer, accordingly, would undo 90 per cent of prohibition. That's something that has occurred to few of the "liberals." However, King Alcohol was put out of business on account of the other 10 per cent, which went into firewater. Minority rule. Abuse of whisky by a few brought prohibition to the millions contented with a mild drink.

MEAT

Meat eaten by Americans in 1922 was equivalent to 150 pounds for every man, woman and child. That's more than half a pound a day for each grown-up, allowing for babies and young children who get little or no meat. Big meat consumption indicates high national prosperity, compared with other countries. Health side is debatable.

A HOUSE OF MIRTH

In Yonkers the other day a husband skipped out to parts unknown, for the present at least. He had related to a policeman on his beat a few days before that things were not just right at his house. One instance of the growing menace there consisted of a weekly beating which was administered to him by his wife, who clubbed him for holding out $2 a week from his customary $41 salary. Things finally got so bad that the husband left and the wife's pleading with the court for alimony was denied. The meat of this story may be summed up in the familiar lines of a once popular motion picture play entitled, "Don't Lie to Your Wife," but the humor of the situation seems to have disappeared entirely for the man in the case. Doubtless he could get no harm in appropriating a couple of dollars a week for personal hilarity. He evidently had no faith in "leave-man" tactics, or else feared that such a policy would be dangerous and unsuccessful around his house. And so he fled. He used good judgment. As a general rule it doesn't pay to "hold out" on your wife, but if you chance to find yourself married to a rolling pin wielder, we suspect the courts would sanction even holding out.—Dayton News.

LITERATURE IN MODERN SEIN

No European literature suffered more than the Spanish from the rigid optimism grin that overspread the novel in the nineteenth century. From the time when the Byronic outburst that had followed the failure of the first revolution had evaporated in tears and pistol shots to the late nineties, everything was good humor, taste, and gentility. A writer was a well-bred person in a stock who hured no one's feelings and told comical stories enlivened with an occasional tear for the benefit of prosperous merchants, the clerks and wives. Facetiousness and genre were the keystones. The genial fatuity of the novels of Valdes and Juan Valera is almost incredible. A tremendous epic sense of events hardly saved Galdos from the same delusions. It took the entire police court dossier of murder, rape and lunacy to wipe the smile off the face of Echeagaray. Funny enough it was the sugar trust and "Remember the Maine" that first shattered the complacent dream of order and progress. The jolt of the disasters of the war brought a new generation into consciousness. The was the famous generation of '98, men who read German and English and forgot to go to mass, and who started about everything that is going on in thought and writing in Spain today. A half dozen of Baroja's novels will probably remain their most solid and typical expression.—John Dos Passos in the Dial.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

When the Twins left the queer mixed-up school, they heard a queer flapping sound overhead.

And looking up they saw an automobile with wings, roosting on a tree.

"All the queer things they had seen in Mix-Up Land, this was the queerest."

"Want a ride?" offered the automobile obligingly.

"Yes, thank 'you," answered Nancy. "If it's quite safe."

"Safe?" laughed the automobile. "Why, I'm just as safe as a balloon with a hole in it. Nothing could be safer than that."

Nick laughed. "Mix-Up Land is such a queer place we don't know what is safe and what isn't. Why do you fly instead of run?"

"Why does the sun shine at night, and the moon shine in the day time?" asked the queer automobile.

"Why does anything do anything in Mix-Up Land? Why do elephants chirp and sparrows trumpet, why do lions bark and dogs roar, why is the grass blue and the sky green, why is—"

"Oh, oh, oh!" cried Nancy, putting her hands over her ears. "Don't say anything more, please. We are getting so mixed up we'll soon be Mix-Uppers ourselves."

The automobile rattled its bolts. "Well, you asked me, so I was just telling you," it answered. "But I'm not so crazy as I look. Automobiles that fly have some advantage over automobiles that roll on the ground. Do you still wish to get to Jack Straw's house on top of the steeple?"

"Yes, yes, yes!" cried both Twins at once. "We want to put him out and put King Even-even in."

"Then climb up and jump in," said the automobile. "Perhaps if you guide me right, I can run into it and wreck it."

With shouts of glee, in scrambled the Twins, and away flew the automobile.

Mix-Up Land looked like a game of a hundred colors spread out below.

THERE'S AN END TO ALL THINGS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SIR NORMAN GREYES, formerly of Scotland Yard, is devoting his time to tracking down

MICHAEL SAYERS, arch criminal. Sayers is known to Greyes under the alias of Stanfield.

Michael drives in a small car to Brown's bank in the suburb of Leeds and robs it of over 7000 pounds. Stepping from the bank into a touring car in which JANET SOALE, his confederate awaits him. Sayers races for Scotland. Robertson, who takes charge of the small car, is arrested but freed for lack of evidence.

Sir Norman tracks Michael to Scotland where he finds him living under the alias of Grover. Greyes dines with Mr. and Mrs. Grover and is invited to a game of golf by Michael.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

SIR NORMAN CONTINUES.

"With pleasure," I assented. "At ten o'clock?"

"I will be in the clubhouse," I promised him.

"We go to bed, up here," he remarked, "practically with the sun."

I rose to my feet. I took my leave, and as I walked down the drive, with the yellow moon shining through the sparse trees, I felt the ghosts of tragedy gathering.

At five minutes to ten on the following morning I watched Mr. James Stanfield push open his private gate leading onto the links, and stroll across toward the clubhouse. I waved my hand and stepped back into the locker-room. Three or four men in tweeds and golfing outfit were waiting there. In five minutes my prospective opponent entered. In five seconds the handcuffs were upon his wrists, and one of the three apparent golfers had the matter in hand.

"You are charged," he said, "with feloniously wounding William Hamell, manager, and John Stokes, clerk, of Brown's Bank in the Menwood Road, Leeds, and with stealing from the premises the sum of seven thousand pounds. I should recommend you to come with us quietly, and to reserve for the present anything you may have to say."

Looking at him as he stood leaning a little against his own locker, I could have sworn that there was no manner of change in the face or expression of my enemy. He ignored the others and looked across at me.

"This is your doing?" he asked. "Altogether," I admitted. "You knew it—last night?"

"It was you who reminded me that I need not take salt," I replied.

He nodded.

"The trick is to you," he confessed. "I am ready, gentlemen."

He walked quietly out to a waiting motorcar, with a burly policeman on either side of him, and a very important man from Scotland Yard in the party. Rimmington and I were left behind, and presently we essayed a round of golf. All the time my eyes kept straying toward the Lodge. No sign, however, came from there.

"I still," Rimmington remarked, as we waited for a few minutes on the tenth tee, "don't quite understand how you tumbled to this affair so quickly."

"It was quite easy when you once admit the possibility of the occupants of the Dartier car being concerned," I replied. "Of course,

Robertson was in it up to his eyes. It was Stanfield who drove up in Robertson's Ford and went direct to the bank. The Dartier car was already there, containing Janet Stanfield and Robertson, wearing a gray Homburg hat and a linen duster. The chauffeur brought in the store a small order which the grocer's assistant packed and took out. The chauffeur was taking advantage of the delay to fill up with petrol. The moment Stanfield descended from the Ford and made his way to the bank, Robertson slipped off his linen duster, produced a Panama hat which he pulled over his eyes, and made his purchases in the shop. He came out just as Stanfield reappeared, and drove the Ford away. Stanfield stepped into the Dartier, put on his linen duster and gray Homburg hat, and off they started. The idea was to confuse, and at first it succeeded. The whole affair was ingenious, from the selection of that particular bank, which was wickedly isolated, to the exact location to the Dartier car, which made anyone on the off-side almost invisible.

"It's pretty generous of you to let me take the credit of this," Rimmington remarked.

"If Stanfield turns out to be Pugsley, and Pugsley the man I believe him to be," I said, "I shall need no other reward than the joy of having brought him to book."

"Do you believe him to be Pugsley?" Rimmington asked.

"I am absolutely certain of it," I answered.

"We completed our round, lunch, and played again. There came no sign from the Lodge. Somehow or other, the silence seemed to me ominous. Toward evening I began to get uneasy. Just as we were sitting down to dinner, I was fetched to the telephone.

"Inspector McCall speaking," the voice I heard declared. "Are you Sir Norman Greyes?"

"Yes," I answered.

"Have you heard the news?"

"I have heard no particular news since early this morning," I replied.

"Stanfield escaped eleven miles from here," the Inspector declared gloomily.

"Escaped? Ridiculous!" I exclaimed.

"He did it, anyhow. He shot both his guards with an automatic pistol fixed in the sole of one shoe and worked with the toe of the other. Mr. Grover, from Scotland Yard, is seriously wounded, and one of the others is shot in the leg. Stanfield then threatened the driver until he released him from the handcuffs and took him to within a mile of a railway station. There he tied the man up, drove the car on himself and disappeared. So far we have no news."

I could make no intelligible reply. I muttered something to the effect that Rimmington and I would come on to the police station the first thing in the morning.

Then I walked outside, a little giddy, sick at heart, furious with myself and Fate. I stood toward the Lodge until at last I yielded to an irresistible impulse. I hastened across the few yards of heathergrown common, crossed the road, made my way up the straggling avenue and rang the great front-door bell. Presently the huge door swung silently open. Janet stood there, looking out at me.

"I freely admit that I lost my nerve. I lost my poise, and with it all the gifts which enable a man to face an exceptional situation. For this woman showed no signs of any mental disturbance. I had never seen her look more beautiful. She moved away from the door.

"Come in," she invited. "I have been expecting you."

Our footsteps awakened strange echoes in the hall. She led the way into the sitting-room, which opened onto the terrace, and sank back on the divan, where apparently she had been resting.

"Judas!" she murmured.

"You know, then?" I demanded harshly.

"Everything—even the last little episode. What fools you policemen are!"

"He isn't safe yet," I muttered. She laughed mockingly.

"I worry no more about him," she declared. "It is not an equal struggle. I worry only about myself, alone here."

"Alone—here!" I echoed.

She nodded.

"Harding, our butler-chauffeur and confederate, has taken the car—where you can guess. Our gillie broke his leg this morning and has gone to hospital. I am not afraid of burglars, but I am terrified of mice, and the place is overrun with them. Also I simply loathe the idea of having to get up and make my own coffee in the morning."

I rose to my feet.

"There are empty rooms at the Dornay House," I told her, "where you could obtain service and be made quite comfortable. I am going back now. Shall I bespeak one for you?"

"You would really have me there," she asked curiously, "under the same roof as your august and respectable self?"

"Why not?"

"The wife of a famous criminal," she reminded me, "the wife of the man whom you have betrayed! You and I share a secret too, don't we? Would you vouch for my—respectability?"

I moved a step toward her. Her eyes were filled with a mingled light—a light of allurement and cruelty. Her lips were moist and quivering—was it with anger? A long bare arm was withdrawn from behind her head. . . . Then a voice fell upon the throbbing silence like a douche of cold water.

"Hands up—like lightning!"

"I obeyed. I repeated the voice of the man in Harding's livery. It was Stanfield, who had crept in upon us unheard."

"A mixture of Lothario and Inspector Bucket!" he mocked. "Any prayers to say?"

"If you are going to shoot, let's have it over quickly," I answered. The woman stepped between us.

"Don't be absurd," she said to the newcomer. "We couldn't afford to part with Sir Norman. Life would be too dull without him. Put him on parole. He is perfectly trustworthy."

"You are right," Stanfield admitted. "Take your choice, Greyes—twelve hours' silence, or Eternity."

"I will be silent for twelve hours," I promised.

He pointed to the door.

"I cannot have the last few hours I may spend with my wife disturbed," he said. "Kindly leave us."

I went. There was a mist before my eyes, a cloud befogging my brain.

Rimmington was sitting on the porch, smoking, when I got back. He moved his head toward the Lodge. It was obvious from his dejection that he too had heard from McCall.

"What do you think about taking a look round there?" he suggested.

"Quite useless," I replied tersely. "Let's have a game of billiards and try and forget the whole damned business."

National Park and Cemetery
Vielsburg, Miss.
Here, on the hills, where they fought each other,
Northern comrade and Southern brother,
Bound with death's eternal tether,
Soldiers valiant, they lie together;
In graven brass and in carved stone,
Are their splendid deeds to the world made known.
How brave men battled and bled and died
On these green hills of the countryside.
While the grass shall sprout and the river run,
Their sons shall know, and sons of their sons,
How a foe was conquered—and made a Friend,
In a faith, please God, that shall never end.
Here, state by state, is their monument;
Here, under the hillsides, they lie content
Who did not flinch at the battle call;
With the great sky arching above them all.
And out of the ashes of wrath and war,
Whatever the cause they were fighting for,
A Nation grew from this test supreme.
The National lives—and the sun's rays gleam
On the hills where the dead forever dream.

U. S. Representative From Kansas, Seventh District

Many years ago a Kansas couple bought a farm, on which they paid down all their savings, giving a mortgage for the rest of the purchase price.

The land agent's commission amounted to a considerable sum and the farmer's wife objected strenuously to paying it. Crops were bad and the couple lost the place by foreclosure.

Years passed. Luck changed. The pair prospered. Finally they bought another farm. This time the wife specified in advance that no commission should go to anybody. She considered it bad luck.

The lawyer who drew up the deed and mortgage acceded to her request, and the wife seemed satisfied. But when she and her husband returned home, she found under the notarial seal these words:

"My commission expires Sept. 16, 188—"

And it took the lawyer and her husband months to convince her that something hadn't been put over on her.

Ladies Night at Rotary To Be Big Event of the Week

One of the important social affairs of the week is the Ladies' Night of the Bismarck Rotary club which takes place this evening at 8 o'clock at the McKenzie Hotel. There will be the regular Rotary dinner with the wives of the Rotarians as the special guests.

In addition the club has invited as guests, the faculty of the Bismarck schools and the members of the school board. Each Rotarian has been assigned one or more members of the faculty to escort to the event.

L. Bell, president of the local club, will preside and the program is in charge of George Dullam and Roy Logan. There will be some lively stunts, a few short snappy addresses and music by the McKenzie Five orchestra.

B. & P. W. Have Business and Social Meeting

A short business session of the Bismarck and Professional Women's club members was held last evening in their club rooms. Reports of the officers and standing committees were given and open discussions of important matters were brought before the club. At the close of the business meeting the remainder of the evening was given over to a social time.

Archie McGowan and Reinhold Trichter sang their audience.

With saxophone and piano duets. Another part of the program were the solo dances by Miss Jane Byrne and Miss Bernice Joslin. The former young lady gave a 32nd dance, and the latter a Colonial dance. Mrs. P. E. Byrne, mother of Miss Jane, played the accompaniment for both dances. The party that had been planned by the committee, under the direction of Miss Joslin, had to be postponed in account of illness of part of the cast. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge of the March activities, Miss Phyllis Millory, chairman, assisted by Misses Mary Huber, Esther Maxwell, Madge Runey, Rita Murphy, Dorothy Dakin and Grace Hand.

CHILDREN'S SPRING STYLES

Children's shops are showing spring styles!

A huge patch pocket across the front of a new play apron for a small girl makes it a most desirable garment. Straps from the shoulders and a big sash tied in back.

A new bloomer dress is made of two materials and has very pretty butterfly sleeves set in raglan fashion.

Still another bloomer dress is made into a red and white gingham flowered with scalloped petals around neck, sleeves, hem and bloomer legs.

These and the many other spring clothes for children use all of the standard fabrics as well as new Indian prints and hand-woven madras.

Next Sunday Rev. R. Tammen of Hazen, will have charge of the German services in the morning at the Evangelical church and Mr. John H. Worst will speak in the evening. There will also be Sunday School and English services in the morning as well as in the evening.

Local Merchants Observe Silk Week

International Silk week is being celebrated by local dry goods dealers this week from March 5 to 10. While the first international silk show ever attempted was held at the Grand Central Palace in New York City in February of 1921, the idea became permanent that very year, and merchants throughout the United States have observed silk week regularly.

The purpose of the big show was "to put the idea of silk across"—to show the history of the silk industry, its development, the uses of silk, the beauty of garments made from silk, and to create a wider market for the sale of silk.

The interest manifested in this country in silk may be traced to the fact that America now manufactures more silk than all the countries of the world combined.

While the culture of silk, however, according to Chinese myths dates back to 2400 B. C., almost 3,200 years before its nature was understood in Europe, this country have developed its production most completely. One of the three emperors to whom the Chinese give the honor of beginning of their ancient customs was Huang-Ti who is said to have invented the making of garments, although he probably means improvements in weaving. He is said to have instructed his Empress, Si-Ling-Chi, to experiment with the silk worms, which lived on the mulberry trees, in order to discover if they could be raised by people.

The culture in silk has been known in China from time immemorial, according to ancient writings. In writings by Confucius about 500 B. C. mention is made of the fact that the emperor and his vassals maintained a government nursery for mulberry trees and silk worms. It was the custom then for lots to be drawn by the ladies of the three palaces, and for the lucky one chosen to be sent to the nursery to care for the worms.

Much romance and a number of religious observances were woven around the silk industry.

While the industry appears to have developed in China centuries ago, it was not until the late 19th century that it came to the United States. The first silk was introduced into America in 1837 by a French marquis, who brought with him a number of silkworms.

A general rule, in planning for color effect one may start at one end with the true blues, then use pink and rose shades, then yellows shading into orange, then the scarlets and deeper shades, then a little more orange and the lavenders and purples with relief plantings of some white annuals; finally not too great a mass of white should be used. Plant it rather sparingly throughout the border as it attracts attention from other coloring when used too freely and at a distance gives a spotty effect.

Beautiful color plantings may be worked out in the various kinds of annuals.

As aster planting may begin with the deep purples, following with the deep lavenders, the rose pinks, light lavender, flesh colors, then the darker rose colors, and deepest toned reds.

Snappdragons may be planted in various unusual shades of yellow and buff, fawn, orange and scarlet to deep crimson.

In all color schemes a sturdy group of a single color gives by far a finer effect than can be secured from mixed plantings.

Zinnias in masses of brilliant scarlet, the wonderful burnt oranges, the delicate new pink shades, and creams and yellows make particularly gorgeous plantings.

Many Cases of "Flu"
Physicians report that there are many cases of what now is being called a "mild flu" in Bismarck, but there are few cases of contagious disease in the city. The "mild flu" has not been as severe as the "flu" of the war-time period and is not regarded as being serious enough to cause death. None of the cases of sleeping sickness reported in this territory has originated in Bismarck.

Supporting Miss Dana are players of real skill. Two of her suitors in the story are portrayed by Allan Forrest and John Bowers. Claude Gilligwater plays her sturdy Southern grandfather, and others of importance are Lillian Lawrence and Gertrude Short.

"Crimoline and Romance" is a Haury Beaumont production for Metro, based on the story written and adapted by Bernard McConville. John Arnold photographed the production.

THE ELTINGE
Harold Lloyd has again proven that he is the most consistent funmaker on the screen by his latest Pathe five-reel comedy, "Dr. Jack," which is seen at the Eltinge Theatre today and tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday.

There are comedians who make exceedingly funny pictures, but Lloyd is the most consistent and dependable of the Sons of Laughter. "Grandma's Boy," seemed to us to be the perfect comedy—until we saw "Dr. Jack."

In "Dr. Jack," Lloyd has again given us a comedy with a serious vein running through it, but the laughter is continuous and everlasting. Never was there anything funnier screened than Lloyd's acrobatic antics in his weird disguise as the madman. It was a laugh from start to finish.

Harold Lloyd is seen in the title role, that of a young doctor who cures his by the "sunshine method." The fast and furious Lloydian comedy is interwoven with a charming love story, and here the comedian fairly outshines all the Great Lovers of the screen. It's a great comedy and you really can't afford to miss it.

YOUR GARDEN COLOR SCHEME
Color arrangement is now regarded as most important in ornamental gardening and is attracting the most careful study. A gardener for the most part should be guided by his own taste and use the colors which he particularly admires. If he prefers blue and purple to scarlet, orange and yellow, he should plan a garden in which his favorites would be the prevailing tones with touches of contrasting and harmonizing colors to emphasize and relieve the blue and purple.

Pale yellows and pinks used with blues of the lighter shades, and orange used in contrast with lavenders and purples, make admirable combinations.

The orange African marigolds planted with ageratum made a picture to remember. The ageratum also is excellent with the velvety French marigolds.

A general rule, in planning for color effect one may start at one end with the true blues, then use pink and rose shades, then yellows shading into orange, then the scarlets and deeper shades, then a little more orange and the lavenders and purples with relief plantings of some white annuals; finally not too great a mass of white should be used. AN INTIMATE STORY OF INNERMOST EMOTIONS REVEALED IN PRIVATE LETTERS
Copyright 1923 - NEA Service Inc.

LETTER FROM LESLIE HAMILTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT:

LOVER MINE:
I am sitting in my drawing room. It is very late. There is no more passing before my door; nothing calls my ears except the sound of the pounding wheels underneath the car which keeps saying, "The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you."

The monotony of the refrain is maddening, even if the fact were not breaking my heart—my sad heart, which keeps trying to bridge those weary miles that are stretching out farther and further from me to you.

Hearts, you know, are never worldly, never practical. They do not reason, they only feel; and that is why perhaps they are bruised and hurt so often.

Tonight my heart is crying out to that part of my brain we humans call reason, that it has lately persuaded me to give up that which I know now makes existence life, for the sake of following out some silly convention of society.

I want you so, lover mine, I want you so. Everything in the world sings into nothingness beside the want of you.

But my reason insists, that wedding must be prepared for, just as births and burials must be given thought and preparation. Life is not all feelings and impulse. In fact I am afraid we will find more responsibility and duty in it than romance and dreams. Although I hate it, tonight, I know more than ever before that convention after all is but making into a universal rule the duties imposed on mankind by necessity and convenience. I close my hand over my clattering heart and listen to the sane counsels of reason.

You know, John dear, that my mother would never have forgiven me had I slipped away and married you without letting anyone know, as you wanted me to do. Mothers want to make the world think, at least, that their daughters are going to something better than they have ever had before, and much of the compensation which will come to my mother for losing her daughter will be the glory of sending me to you in the proper manner.

So there must be wedding bells and cakes, and flowers and bride-maids and clothes, and chests or linen and wedding present, and the sound of social affairs that come before. Oh, how I shall hate those social affairs, for you, John, will not be with me!

All the time I am howling and snoring and accepting felicitations and good wishes, I shall be wishing that I was beside you in the little roadster, hurrying along a deserted country road where the twilight shuts down between the shadowy trees that line its sides and the moon is faintly showing as it comes up over the hedges in the distance.

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!" How I wish I could close my ear to what those wheels are saying!

You will not forget anything about me, will you, John? You will remember just how my mouth looked when you bent over me to kiss me? You will remember the touch of my hand the intonation of my voice and the unhappiness my whole being expressed when you here leaving me? I could not bear to have you forget.

John, dear John, the unhappiness of parting is mine, now. Those six silent wheels are bumping along, not upon the iron rails but upon my heart, saying over and over again,

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!"

They Combat the Film

Those people you see everywhere with whiter, cleaner, safer teeth

Go now and ask for this delightful test. Learn how easy it is to fight film on teeth.

You see glistening teeth wherever you look today. Learn how people get them.

There is now a new method of teeth cleaning which millions have adopted. Dentists the world over now advise it. Careful people of some 50 nations now employ it daily. Find out what they know.

That dingy film
That viscous film you feel on teeth is their great enemy. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That's why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why few escaped tooth troubles.

Germs live in film by millions. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Also of other serious troubles.

Avoid Harmful Grit
Pepsodent cordles the film and removes it without harmful scoring. Its polishing action is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

New beauty comes
See what new beauty comes from whiter teeth. Learn the new daintiness that comes from cleaner teeth. You will be amazed and delighted.

Ladies Night at Rotary To Be Big Event of the Week

One of the important social affairs of the week is the Ladies' Night of the Bismarck Rotary club which takes place this evening at 8 o'clock at the McKenzie hotel. There will be the regular Rotary dinner with the wives of the Rotarians as the special guests.

In addition the club has invited as guests the faculty of the Bismarck schools and the members of the school board. Each Rotarian has been assigned one or more members of the faculty to escort to the event.

L. H. Bell, president of the local club, will preside and the program is in charge of George Dullam and Roy Logan. There will be some lively stunts, a few short snappy addresses and music by the McKenzie Five orchestra.

A short reception for the school faculty and members of the board will precede the chief event of the evening. This affair is part of the year's program of the Rotary club looking toward a closer cooperation between the schools and patrons.

B. & P. W. Have Business and Social Meeting

A short business session of the Business and Professional Women's club members was held last evening in their club rooms. Reports of the officers and standing committees were given and open discussions of important matters were brought before the club. At the close of the business meeting the remainder of the evening was given over to a social time.

Archie McGraw and Reinhold Heller delighted their audience with saxophone and piano duets. Another part of the program were the solo dances by Miss Jane Byrne and Miss Bernice Joslin. The former young lady gave a Spanish dance, and the latter a Colonial dance. Mrs. P. E. Byrne, mother of Miss Jane, played the accompaniment for both dances. The play that had been planned by the committee, under the direction of Miss Dakin, had to be postponed on account of illness of four of the cast. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge of the March activities, Miss Frances Mallory, chairman, assisted by Misses Mary Huber, Esther Maxwell, Madge Runey, Rita Murphy, Dorothy Dakin and Grace Hand.

Company A Presents Show

"One Girl in a Million" is the title of the musical comedy which will be presented at the Auditorium here on March 21 by Company A, North Dakota National Guard. The play will be directed by Mr. Childs, who also is directing the show of the Mandan Elks, a Dickinson show and the Mandan Town Players. The next rehearsal will be held Sunday. The show is presented under auspices of the entertainment committee of Company A, composed of Lieut. A. H. Scharnowski, Sgt. Geo. Schmidt, Sgt. Lee Blenzy, Sgt. A. Holta, Cpl. John McGowan.

CHILDREN'S SPRING STYLES

Children's shops are showing spring styles!

A huge patch pocket across the front of a new play apron for a small girl makes it a most desirable garment. Straps from the shoulders and a big sash tied in back.

A new bloomer dress is made of two materials and has very pretty butterfly sleeves set in raglan fashion.

Still another bloomer dress is made into a red and white gingham flowered with scalloped petals around neck, sleeves, hem and bloomer legs.

These and the many other spring clothes for children use all of the standard fabrics as well as new Indian prints and hand-woven madras.

Rev. Strutz To Assist in Revival

Rev. C. F. Strutz left today for Chassey where he will assist his nephew, Ruben Strutz, in conducting a series of Evangelistic services until about the end of next week.

Next Sunday Rev. R. Tammen of Hazen, will have charge of the German services in the morning at the Evangelical church and Dr. John H. Worst will speak in the evening. There will also be Sunday School and English services in the morning as well as in the evening.

Local Merchants Observe Silk Week

International Silk week is being celebrated by local dry goods dealers this week from March 5 to 10.

While the first international silk show ever attempted was held at the Grand Central Palace in New York City in February of 1921, the idea became permanent that very year, and merchants throughout the United States have observed silk week regularly.

The purpose of the big show was "to put the idea of silk across" to show the history of the silk industry, its development, the uses of silk, the beauty of garments made from silk, and to create a wider market for the sale of silk.

The interest manifested in this country in silk may be traced to the fact that America now manufactures more silk than all the countries of the world combined.

While the culture of silk, however, according to Chinese myths dates back to 2460 B. C., almost 3,200 years before its nature was understood in Europe, this country have developed its production most completely. One of the three emperors to whom the Chinese give the honor of beginning of their ancient customs was Huang-Ti who is said to have invented the making of garments, although he probably means improvements in weaving. He is said to have instructed his Empress, Si-Ling-Chi, to experiment with the silk worms, which lived on the mulberry trees, in order to discover if they could be raised by people.

The culture in silk has been known in China from time immemorial, according to ancient writings. In writings by Confucius about 500 B. C. mention is made of the fact that the emperor and his vassals maintained a government nursery for mulberry trees and silk worms. It was the custom then for lots to be drawn by the ladies of the three palaces, and for the lucky one chosen to be sent to the nursery to care for the worms.

Much romance and a number of religious observances were woven around the silk industry.

While the industry appears to have developed in China pictures of a spinning loom and hand spinning such as done in China appear in Egyptian history as early as 3000 B. C.

AT THE MOVIES

VIOLA DANA IN CRINO-
LINES IN HER NEW ROLE

The latest Metro photoplay to star the charming Viola Dana is "Crinoline and Romance," and it is to be shown to the large family of Miss Dana's enthusiasts tonight at the Capitol Theatre. Many novelties, both in characterization and in story, are promised for this film, and photoplays fans should be entertained hugely, if accounts of the picture can be depended upon.

Miss Dana's versatility takes an entirely new turn in "Crinoline and Romance." In the photoplay she is seen as a naive Southern miss, completely sequestered from the rest of the world on her grandfather's estate in North Carolina.

The star is everything that the role calls for—demure, vivacious, spirited, and fascinating. Her acting in this picture is said to provide a real surprise for theatre-goers.

The story of the picture tells of the young girl's determination to escape from the rigidity of her surroundings. She visits the home of her aunt, and there tastes modern "social" life, only to be bitterly disappointed and disillusioned. There is a great deal of charm and amusing incident in the telling of the story, and it affords the various star's opportunities to indulge in her dainty love and comedy.

Supporting Miss Dana are players of real skill. Two of her stunts in the story are portrayed by Allan Forrest and John Bowers. Claude Gillingwater plays the sturdy Southern grandfather, and others of importance are Lillian Lawrence and Gertrude Short.

"Crinoline and Romance" is a Harry Beaumont production for Metro, based on the story written and adapted by Bernard McConville. John Arnold photographed the production.

THE ELTINGE
Harold Lloyd has again proven that he is the most consistent funmaker on the screen by his latest Pathe five-reel comedy, "Dr. Jack," which is shown at the Eltinge Theatre today and tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday.

There are comedians who make exceedingly funny pictures, but Lloyd is the most consistent and dependable of the Sons of Laughter. "Grandma's Boy," seemed to us to be the perfect comedy—until we saw "Dr. Jack."

In "Dr. Jack," Lloyd has again given us a comedy with a serious vein running through it, but the laughter is continuous and everlasting. Never was there anything funnier screened than Lloyd's acrobatic antics in his weird disguise as the madman. It was a laugh from start to finish.

Harold Lloyd is seen in the title role, that of a young doctor who cures ill by the "sunshine method." The fast and furious Lloydian comedy is interwoven with a charming love story, and hence the comedian fairly outshines all the Great Loves of the screen. It's a great comedy and you really can't afford to miss it.

YOUR GARDEN COLOR SCHEME

Color arrangement is now regarded as most important in ornamental gardening and is justifying the careful study of the color scheme.

The most part should be guided by his own taste and use the colors which he particularly admires. If he prefers blue and purple to scarlet, orange and yellow, he should plan a garden in which his favorites would be the prevailing tones with touches of contrasting and harmonizing colors to emphasize and relieve the blue and purple.

Pale yellows and pinks used with blues of the lighter shades, and orange used in contrast with lavenders and purples, make admirable combinations.

The orange African marigolds planted with ageratum made a picture to remember. The ageratum also is excellent with the velvety orange, maroon and mahogany shades of the French marigolds.

As a general rule, in planning for color effect one may start at one end with the true blues, then use pink and rose shades, then yellows shading into orange, then the scarlets and deeper shades, then a little more orange and the lavenders and purples with relief plantings of some white annual; finally not too great a mass of white should be used. Plant rather sparingly throughout the border as it attracts attention from other coloring when used too freely and at a distance gives a spotty effect.

Beautiful color plantings may be worked out in the various kinds of annuals.

As aster plantings may begin with the deep purples, following with the deep lavenders, the rose pinks, light lavender, flesh colors, then the darker rose colors and deepest toned reds.

Snagdragons may be planted in various unusual shades of yellow and buff, fawn, orange and scarlet to deep crimsons.

In all color schemes a stable group of a single color gives by far a finer effect than can be secured from mixed plantings.

Zinnias in masses of brilliant scarlet, the wonderful burnt oranges, the delicate new pink shades, and creams and yellows make particularly gorgeous plantings.

Many Cases of "Flu"
Physicians report that there are many cases of what now is being called a "mild flu" in Bismarck, but there are few cases of contagious disease in the city. The "mild flu" has not been as severe as the "flu" of the war-time period and is not regarded as being serious enough in itself to cause death. None of the cases of sleeping sickness reported in this territory has originated in Bismarck.

LETTER FROM LESLIE HAMILTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT:

LOVER MINE:

I am sitting in my drawing room. It is very late. There is no more passing before my door; nothing assails my ears except the sound of the pounding wheels underneath the car which keeps saying, "The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you."

The monotony of the refrain is maddening, even if the fact were not breaking my heart—my sad heart, which keeps trying to bridge those weary miles that are stretching out farther and farther from me to you.

Hearts, you know, are never worldly, never practical. They do not reason, they only feel—and that is why perhaps they are bruised and hurt so often.

Tonight my heart is crying out to that part of my brain we humans call reason, that it has basely persuaded me to give up that which I know now makes existence life, for the sake of following out some silly convention of society.

I want you so, lover mine, I want you so. Everything in the world swims into nothingness beside the want of you.

But my reason insists that weddings must be prepared for, just as births and burials must be given thought and preparation. Life is not all feelings and impulse. In fact I am afraid we will find more responsibility and duty in it than romance and dreams. Although I hate it, tonight, I know more than ever before that convention after all is but making into a universal rule the duties imposed on mankind by necessity and convenience. I close my hand over my clenching heart and listen to the same counsels of reason.

You know, John dear, that my mother would never have forgiven me had I slipped away and married you without letting anyone know, as you wanted me to do. Mothers want to make the world think, at least, that their daughters are going to something better than they have ever had before, and much of the compensation which will come to my mother for losing her daughter will be the glory of sending me to you in the proper manner.

So there must be wedding bells and cakes, and flowers and bride-maids and a universal rule of the duties and wedding presents, and the round of social affairs that come before. Oh, how I shall hate those social affairs, for you, John, will not be with me!

All the time I am howling and smiling and accepting felicitations and good wishes, I shall be wishing that I was beside you in the little roadster, hurrying along a deserted country road where the twilight shuts down between the shadowy trees that line its sides and the moon is faintly showing as it comes up over the higgs in the distance.

"The miles are lengthening between you—the miles are lengthening between you!" How I wish I could close my eyes to what those wheels are saying!

You will not forget anything about me, will you, John? You will remember just how my mouth looked when you bent over me to kiss me? You will remember the touch of my hand—the intonation of my voice—and the unhappiness my whole being expressed when you here leaving me? I could not bear to have you forget.

John, dear John, the unhappiness of parting is mine, now. Those insistent wheels are bumping along, not upon the iron rails but upon my heart, saying over and over again,

A HOUSE OF MIRTH

In Yonkers the other day a husband skipped out to party unknown, for the present at least. He had related to a policeman on his beat a few days before that things were not just right at his house. One instance of the growing menace there consisted of a weekly beating which was administered to him by his wife, who elbowed him for holding out $1 a week from his customary $4 salary. Things finally got so bad that the husband left and the wife's pleading with the court for alimony was denied. The meat of this story may be summed up in the familiar lines of a once popular motion picture play entitled, "Don't Lie to Your Wife," but the humor of the situation seems to have disappeared entirely for the man in the case. Doubtless he could see no harm in appropriating a couple of dollars a week for personal hilarity. He evidently had no faith in "cave-man" tactics, or else feared that such a policy would be dangerous and unsuccessful around his house. And so he fled. He used good judgment. A general rule that doesn't put to "shame" on your wife, but if you chance to find yourself married to a rolling pin wielder, we suspect the courts would sanction even holding out. —Dayton News.

LITERATURE IN MODERN SPAIN

No European literature suffered more than the Spanish from the misadventure of the nineteenth century. From the time when the Byronic outburst that had followed the failure of the first revolution had evaporated in tears and pistol shots to the late nineties, everything was poor humor, taste and gentility. A writer was a well-bred person in a stock who burst no one's feelings and told no scandalous stories. He lived with occasional tears for the benefit of prosperous merchants and the clerks and wives. Facetiousness and gente were the keywords. The general fatuity of the novels of Valdes and Juan Valera is almost incredible. A tremendous epic scene of events hardly saved Galdos from the same delirium. It took the more police court docket of murder, rape and lunacy to wipe the smile off the face of Echegaray. Funny enough it was the sugar trust and "Remember the Maine" that first shattered the complacent dream of order and progress. The jolt of the disaster of the war brought a new generation into consciousness. This was the famous generation of men who read German and English and started about everything that was going on in thought and writing in Spain today. A half dozen of Baroja's novels will probably remain their most solid and typical expression. —John Dos Passos in the Dial.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

When the Twins left the queer mixed-up school, they heard a queer thing about one of them.

And looking up they saw an automobile with wings, roosting on a tree.

"Of all the queer things they had seen in Mix-Up Land, this was the queerest."

"Want a ride?" offered the automobile obligingly.

"Yes, thank you," answered Nancy. "It's quite safe."

"Safe?" laughed the automobile. "Why, I'm just as safe as a balloon with a hole in it. Nothing could be safer than that."

"Mix-Up Land is such a queer place we don't know what is safe and what isn't. Why do you fly instead of run?"

"Why does the sun shine at night, and the moon shine in the day time?" asked the queer automobile. "Why does anything do anything in Mix-Up Land? Why do elephants chirp and sparrows trumpet, why do lions bark and dogs roar, why is the grass blue and the sky green, why is—"

"Oh, oh, oh!" cried Nancy, putting her hand over her ears. "Don't say anything more, please. We are getting so mixed up we'll soon be Mix-Uppers ourselves."

The automobile rattled its bells.

"Well, you asked me, so I was just telling you," it answered. "But I'm not so crazy as I look. Automobiles that fly have some advantage over automobiles that roll on the ground. Do you still wish to get to Jack Straw's house on top of the temple?"

"Yes, yes, yes!" cried both Twins at once. "We want to put him out and put King Evers back in."

"Then climb up and jump in," said the automobile. "Perhaps if you guide me right, I can run into it and wreck it."

With shouts of glee, in scrambled the Twins, and away flew the automobile.

Mix-Up Land looked like a game of a hundred evers spread out before them.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SIR NORMAN GREYES, fermier of Scotland Yard, is devoting his time to tracking down MICHAEL SAYERS, arch criminal. Sayers is known to Greyes under the alias of Stanfield. Michael drives in a small car to Brown's bank in the suburb of Leeds and robs it of over 700 pounds. Stepping from the bank into a touring car in which JANET SOALE, his confederate awaits him. Sayers races for Scotland. Robertson, who takes charge of the small car, is arrested but freed for lack of evidence.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

SIR NORMAN CONTINUES "With pleasure," I assented. "At ten o'clock?"

"I will be in the clubhouse," I promised him.

"We go to bed, up here," he remarked. "Practically with the sun."

I rose to my feet. I took my leave, and as I walked down the drive, with the yellow moon shining through the sparse trees, I felt the ghosts of tragedy gathering.

AT FIVE MINUTES TO TEN ON THE following morning I watched Mr. James Stanfield push open his private gate leading onto the links, and stroll across toward the clubhouse. I waved my hand and stepped into the locker-room. Three or four men in tweeds and golfing outfit were waiting there. In five minutes my prospective opponent entered. In five seconds the handcliffs were upon his wrists, and one of the three apparent golfers had the matter in hand. "You are charged," he said, "with feloniously wounding William Haveland, manager, and John Stacey, clerk of Brown's Bank in the Menwood Road, Leeds, and with stealing from the premises the sum of seven thousand pounds. I should recommend you to come with us quietly, and to reserve for the present anything you may have to say."

Looking at him as he stood leaning a little against his own locker, I could have sworn that there was no manner of change in the face or expression of my enemy. He ignored the others and looked across at me.

"This is your doing?" he asked. "Altogether," I admitted. "You knew it—last night?"

"It was you who reminded me that I need not take salt," I replied.

He nodded.

"The trick is to you," he confessed. "I am ready, gentlemen." He walked quietly out to a waiting motorcar, with a burly policeman on either side of him, and a very important man from Scotland Yard in the party. Rimmington and I were left behind, and presently we assayed a round of golf. All the time my eyes kept straying toward the Lodge. No sign, however, came from there.

"I still," Rimmington remarked, as we waited for a few minutes on the tenth tee, "don't quite understand how you tumbled to this affair so quickly."

"It was quite easy when you once admit the possibility of the occupants of the Dartier car being concerned," I replied. "Of course,

ROBERTSON WAS IN IT UP TO HIS EYES.

It was Stanfield who drove up in Robertson's Ford and went direct to the bank. The Dartier car was already there, containing Janet Stanfield and Robertson, wearing a gray Homburg hat and a linen dustcoat. The chauffeur brought in to the stable a small order which the grocer's assistant packed and took out. The chauffeur was taking advantage of the delay to fill up with petrol. The moment Stanfield descended from the Ford and made his way to the bank, Robertson slipped off his linen dustcoat, produced a Pygmy hat which he pulled over his eyes, and made his purchases in the shop. He came out just as Stanfield reappeared, and drove the Ford away. Stanfield just stepped into the Dartier, put on his linen dustcoat and gray Homburg hat, and off they started. The idea was to confuse, and at first it succeeded. The whole affair was ingenious, from the selection of that particular bank, which is wickedly isolated, to the exact location to the Dartier car, which made anyone on the off-side almost invisible.

"IT'S PRETTY GENEROUS OF YOU TO LET ME TAKE THE CREDIT OF THIS,"

Rimmington remarked.

If Stanfield turns out to be a Pygmy, and I happen to have a heathergrown common, crossed the road, made my way up the straggling avenue and rang the great front-door bell. Presently the huge door swung silently open. Janet stood there, looking out at me.

I freely admit that I lost my nerve. I lost my poise, and with it all the gifts which enable a man to face an exceptional situation. For this woman showed no signs of any mental disturbance. I had never seen her look more beautiful. She moved away from the door.

"Come in," she invited. "I have been expecting you."

Our footsteps awakened strange echoes in the hall. She led the way into the sitting-room which opened onto the terrace, and sank back on the divan, where apparently she had been resting.

"Hush!" she murmured.

"You know, then?" I demanded harshly.

"Everything—even the last little episode. What fools you policemen are!"

"He isn't safe yet," I muttered. She laughed mockingly.

"I worry no more about him," she declared. "It is not an equal struggle. I worry only about myself, alone here."

"Alone—here?" I echoed.

She nodded.

"Harding, our butler-chauffeur and confederate, has taken the car—where you can guess. Our girl broke his leg this morning and has gone to hospital. I am not afraid of burglars, but I am terrified of mice, and the place is overrun with them. Also I simply loathe the idea of having to get up and make my own coffee in the morning."

I rose to my feet.

"There are empty rooms at the Dormy House," I told her, "where you could obtain service and be made quite comfortable. I am going back now. Shall I bespeak one for you?"

"You would really have me there," she asked curiously, "under the same roof as your august and respectable self?"

"Why not?"

"The wife of a famous criminal," she reminded me, "the wife of the man whom you have betrayed? You are a shameless traitor, aren't you? Would you vouch for my respectability?"

I moved a step toward her. Her eyes were filled with a mingled light, a light of allurements and cruelty. Her lips were moist and quivering—was it with anger? A long hair—arm was withdrawn from behind her head. Then a voice fell upon the throbbing silence like a douche of cold water.

"Hands up—like lightning!"

I obeyed. I recognized the voice of the man in Harding's livery. It was Stanfield, who had crept in upon us unheeded.

A mixture of Lothario and Inspector Bucket," he mocked. "Any prayers to say?"

"If you are going to shoot, let's have it over quickly," I answered.

The woman stepped between us. "Don't be absurd," she said to the newcomer. "We couldn't afford to part with Sir Norman. Life would be too dull without him. Put him on parole. He is perfectly trustworthy."

"You are right," Stanfield admitted. "Take your choice, Greyes—twelve hours' silence, or Eternity."

"I will be silent for twelve hours," I promised.

He pointed to the door.

"I cannot have the last few hours I may ever spend with my wife disturbed," he said. "Kindly leave us."

I went. There was a mist before my eyes, a cloud before my brain.

Rimmington was sitting on the porch, smoking, when I got back. He moved his head toward the Lodge. It was obvious from his dejection that he too had heard from Janet.

"What do you think about taking a look round there?" he suggested.

"Quite useless," I replied tersely. "Let's have a game of billiards and try and forget the whole damned business."

Vicksburg, Miss.

Here, on the hills, where they fought each other, Northern comrade and Southern brother, Bound with death's eternal tether, Soldiers valiant, they lie together.

In graven brass and in carved stone, Are their splendid deeds to the world made known, How brave men battled and bled and died On these green hills of the country-side.

While the grass shall sprout and the rivers run, Their sons shall know, and sons of their sons, How a foe was conquered—and made a friend.

In a faith, please God, that shall never end, Here, state by state, is their monument; Here, under the hillsides, they lie content Who did not flinch at the battle call; With the great sky arching above them all.

And out of the ashes of wrath and war, Whatever the cause they were fighting for, A Nation grew from this test upon the hills— and the sun's rays gleam On the hills where the dead forever dream.

APITOL JOKE

By J. N. Tinsler

U. S. Representative From Kansas, Seventh District

Many years ago a Kansas couple bought a farm, on which they paid down all their savings, giving a mortgage for the rest of the purchase price.

The land agent's commission amounted to a considerable sum and the farmer's wife objected strenuously to paying it. Crops were laid and the couple lost the place by foreclosure.

Years passed. Luck changed. The pair prospered. Finally they bought another farm. This time the wife specified in advance that no commission should be paid anybody. She considered it bad luck.

The lawyer who drew up the deed and mortgage acceded to her request, and the wife seemed satisfied, but when she and her husband returned home, she found under the notarial seal these words:

"My commission expires Sept. 16, 188—"

And it took the lawyer and not husband months to convince her that something hadn't been put over on her.

Fastest Humans May Meet In 100-Yard Dash Soon

By NEA Service
Chicago, March 7.—The world's "fastest humans" may meet this summer in the racing classic of the age.

Cyril Coaffer, Canadian track star, who, with Charlie Paddock, California wonderman, holds the world's 100-yard record, says he and Paddock have both been invited to run a 100-yard match race at Victoria, B. C. Furthermore, Coaffer is willing to go.

Besides doing the century in 9.5, Coaffer holds the Canadian record for the 220 low hurdles, with 25.4 as his mark. He is 26 years old and will make Chicago his home.

New Boy Wonder May Mean Grief For Weismuller

By NEA Service
Sydney, March 7.—The islands of the Pacific Ocean, whence came the great Duke Kahanamoku, have produced another great swimmer. Already he has shattered one of Norman Ross' world records, and he promises to be a rival of Johnny Weismuller for tank honors.

Alan Charlton, the new swimmer, is an Australian lad. Like Weismuller, he's a boy—just 16 years old. In the 800-yard event he traversed the distance in 11 minutes 5.1-5 seconds. This performance beat by 10 seconds the tank record set by Norman Ross in Chicago in 1919.

Billy Evans Says—

Picking a major league all-star, all-time team is merely a matter of individual opinion.

Any fan who is a student of the game, and who has seen the players in action, is as well qualified to make a selection as some star player, manager, umpire or writer.

Recently John McGraw, unquestionably one of the greatest leaders in the history of the game, made an all-star selection. It seems that McGraw's team has stirred up more arguments among the fans than any of the other crack aggregations that have been selected.

McGraw passed up Lajoie as a regular, selecting him for the utility infield role. He didn't even mention Tris Speaker. While he handed Mathewson much praise that was justly deserved, he made no remarks at all about Mordecai Brown.

Every fan has his own peculiar ideas about the stars of the game. While Lajoie and Brown have passed from the majors, the memory of their play is still fresh in the minds of many a fan. Speaker, conceded to be one of the greatest fielders of all time, has thousands of admirers who regard him as the last word in outfielding.

Since the selections of Manager McGraw were spread broadcast through the many papers using the feature I have received scores of letters taking to task the judgment of the New York manager in his all-star selection.

"Where does McGraw get that stuff about Mathewson being with-out a peer," writes one fan. "Surely Jawn McGraw must remember Mordecai (Three-Fingered) Brown."

"If Jawn has so short a memory I suggest that he look over the pitching duels that took place between 'Matty' and 'Brownie' in which the Chicago twirler invariably emerged the victor.

"I want to serve notice on the experts who pick an all-star team that if they leave 'Three-Fingered' Brown off same they will have me on their back."

Another fan who is evidently a great admirer of Lajoie, writes, "Lajoie, in his prime, could play second base better with one hand than any player I have ever seen at that position could with two. An all-star team without Larry would be like Hamlet without the melancholy Dane."

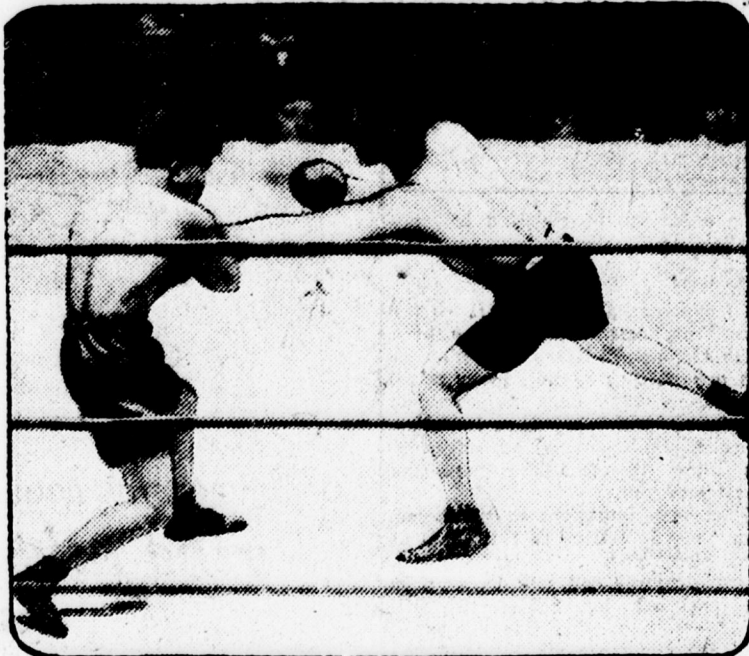

"Leaving Speaker off an all-star team is like having a Christmas tree without any presents. Where do the experts get that stuff and how do they get that way," pens an admirer of Speaker.

All of which gets us back to the opening paragraph, in which it was said, picking an all-time, all-star team was merely a matter of individual opinion. It is impossible to have the world agree with you.

Miller Huggins of Yankees Worries Over Much Vaunted Pitching Staff

By NEA Service
New York, Mar. 7.—Despite the fact that a year ago Miller Huggins boasted he had the best pitching staff in the American League, that department is now his one big worry.

Carl Mays, figured to be a big winner in 1922, failed, and his status for the coming season is very uncertain. American League batters insist that Mays has lost much of his effectiveness, that his fast underhand ball no longer breaks down as once it did.

The question also arises as to whether or not Sam Jones has the temperament to pitch winning ball on a pennant-winning club. With nothing at stake Jones has always been a world-beater. However, the strain of pitching for a pennant winner seems to tell on him.

Two Yankee Failures Of 1922 Only Veterans Signed For Coming Season

By NEA Service
New York, March 7.—Only two Yankee veterans are signed for the coming season. They are Carl Mays and Babe Ruth, the big disappointments of 1922. Both are holdovers, and it is lucky for them they are.

Mays led the American League pitchers in 1921, and twirled great ball in the big series with the Giants. Ruth was the sensation of 1921 in swat circles, with 59 home runs, setting a record that batters will be shooting at a long time.

Naturally, when it came to signing contracts for 1922, both were in a position to dictate terms to the club. Each signed a two-year contract extending through 1923.

It is said that Ruth's contract calls for $52,000 a year, which is paid to the slugger in weekly installments of $1,000 throughout the year. Mays is said to have gotten $15,000 a year for two years.

Mays and Ruth were the "busts" of 1922. Mays failed to pitch winning ball at any stage of the race. Ruth was away below form and lost about 10 weeks of play because of suspensions.

Were it not for the fact that both Ruth and Mays had the New York club tied up for another year, each no doubt would have received a decided cut in his salary check.

The Yankee owners even went so far as to ask for waivers on Mays to see the sentiment of the other clubs. It is said Cincinnati was the only team that refused to waive. ## STOCKER CATTLE CLOSING STRONG Killing Cattle Mostly Steady For The Week. Stockers and Feeders Strong to 25c or More Higher. Little Change in Hogs.

South St. Paul, Minn., March 7.—Cattle marketings of 'around 12,700 last week showed a gain of about 2,000 compared with last week. Supply and demand in the case of killing cattle were about equally balanced and closing prices were mostly steady with last Saturday.

Beef steers of a good grade averaging 1,293 pounds topped the week's car lot trade in fat beefs going at $8.75. Bulk of fat steers and yearlings of common and medium grade sold from $7.00 to $8.00, commonest kinds $6.00 to $6.75.

Butcher cows and heifers sold from $4.00 to around $7.50 with the bulk of fat heifers under $6.50 and bulk of fat cows under $5.50. Canners and cutters went from $2.50 to $3.75, bologna bulls $3.75 to $4.75.

Prices of veal calves broke sharply during the week. Closing prices of best lights ranged from $8.25 to $9.25 with the average cost around $8.50 or about $1.25 lower than last Saturday. Seconds finished largely at $4.50 to $5.50 with the average cost somewhat under $5.00.

Stockers and feeder trade strengthened and closing prices were strong to 25c or more higher than last Saturday, with between grades showing the greater gain. Prices for the week ranged from $4.00 to $8.00 with the bulk of offerings selling at the close from $6.00 to $7.00.

Little net change has occurred in the hog market this week, bulk of 150 to around 250 lb hogs closing at $7.75 to $7.90, heavier butchers, $7.00 to $7.65, packing sows mostly $6.25 to $6.50. Best killing pigs closed at $7.90, stock pigs around $7.50.

Good and choice fat lambs closed at $14.00 to $14.40, seconds and heavier mostly $11.00 to $12.00, or weak to 25c lower for the week. Bulk of fat 100 to 130 lb ewes this week $7.25 to $7.75, heavier ewes $6.00 to $6.50.

OUT OUR WAY — By Williams

MARKET NEWS
WHEAT PRICE
SAGGED ON EARLY DEALS

Chicago, Mar. 7.—Wheat today was held within narrower price limits than usual in the early dealings, graders showing a disposition to avoid any pronounced stand while awaiting issuance of the government estimates tomorrow regarding farm reserves of grain.

At first the market was a little in line with Liverpool quotations. Buying on the part of pit speculators, however, led soon to price gains. The opening, which ranged from 1-8 to 5-8 cents lower with May, $1.17-1/4 to $1.18-1/4 and July, $1.13-1/4 to $1.13-7/8, was followed by an upturn to just above yesterday's finish.

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT PRICE SAGGED ON EARLY DEALS

Chicago, Mar. 7.—Wheat today was held within narrower price limits than usual in the early dealings, graders showing a disposition to avoid any pronounced stand while awaiting issuance of the government estimates tomorrow regarding farm reserves of grain.

At first the market was a little line with Liverpool quotations. Buying on the part of pit speculators, however, led soon to price gains. The opening which ranged from 1-8 to 5-8 cents lower with May, $1.17 3/4 to $1.18 1/8 and July, $1.18 1/4 to $1.19 1/8, was followed by an upturn to just above yesterday's finish.

FLOUR UNCHANGED
Minneapolis, March 7.—Flour unchanged. Shipments 44,522 barrels. Bran 22.

SOUTH ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK
South St. Paul, March 7.—Cattle receipts 2,200. Market mostly steady to weak. Common to good medium beef steers $5.75 to $8.00. Fat stock $4.00 to $7.50. Canners and cutters $2.50 to $3.50. Bologna bulls mostly $4.00 to $4.50. Stockers and feeders slow, steady to weak. Bulk $3.75 to $7.00.

Calves receipts 2,500. Market steady to strong. Practical pucker top on best lights $8.00.

Hog receipts 18,000. Market weak. Mostly 10 cents lower. Bulk good hogs overaging 175 to 225 pounds $7.75 to $7.90. Bulk pigs $7.50.

Sheep receipts 700. Market about steady. Good choice 76-pound fed lambs $14.40. Good natives around $14.00.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK
Chicago, Mar. 7.—Hog receipts 26,000. 10 cents lower. Top price $8.40. Cattle receipts 10,000. Beef steers generally steady with weak decline. Killing quality improved over Tuesday. Early top matured steers $9.75. She-stock scarce, active, 10 to 15 cents higher. Veal calves scarce. Choice kind higher, others strong. Other classes generally steady. Medium to good stockers and feeders fairly active. Bulk desirable veal calves $9.50 to $10.00. Sheep receipts 14,000. Opening very slow. Few early sales clipped stock steady. Practically nothing done on woolled skins.

Fastest Humans May Meet In 100-Yard Dash Soon

By NEA Service
Chicago, March 7.—The world's "fastest humans" may meet this summer in the racing classic of the age.
Cyril Coeffer, Canadian track star, who, with Charlie Paddock, California wonderman, holds the world's 100-yard record, says he and Paddock have both been invited to run a 100-yard match race at Victoria, B. C. Furthermore, Coeffer is willing to go.
Besides doing the century in 9.35, Coeffer holds the Canadian record for the 220 low hurdles, with 25.45 as his mark. He is 26 years old and will make Chicago his home.

New Boy Wonder May Mean Grief For Weismuller

By NEA Service
Sydney, March 7.—The islands of the Pacific Ocean, whence came the great Duke Kahanamoku, have produced another great swimmer. Already he has shattered one of Norman Ross' world records, and he promises to be a rival of Johnny Weismuller for tank honors.
An Australian lad, the new swimmer, is named Charlie. Like Weismuller, he's a boy—just 16 years old. In the 850-yard event he traversed the distance in 11 minutes 5.15 seconds. This performance beat by 13 seconds the tank record set by Norman Ross in Chicago in 1919.

Billy Evans Says—

Picking a major league all-star, all-time team is merely a matter of individual opinion.

Any fan who is a student of the game, and who has seen the players in action, is as well qualified to make a selection as some star player, manager, umpire or writer.

Recently John McGraw, unquestionably one of the greatest leaders in the history of the game, made an all-star selection. It seems that McGraw's team has stirred up more arguments among the fans than any of the other comic aggregations that have been selected.

McGraw passed up Lajoie as a regular, selecting him for the utility infield role. He didn't even mention Tris Speaker. While he handed Mathewson much praise that was justly deserved, he made no remarks at all about Mordcau Brown.

Every fan has his own peculiar ideas about the stars of the game. While Lajoie and Brown have passed from the majors, the memory of their play is still fresh in the minds of many. A fan, Speaker, conceded to be one of the greatest fielders of all time, has thousands of admirers who regard him as the last word in outfielding.

Since the selections of Manager McGraw were spread broadcast through the many papers using the feature, I have received scores of letters taking to task the judgment of the New York manager in his all-star selection.

"Where does McGraw get that stuff about Mathewson being without a peer," writes one fan. "Surely John McGraw must remember Mordcau (Three-Fingered) Brown."

"If I have had so short a memory I suggest that he look over the pitching duels that took place between 'Matty' and 'Brownie' in which the Chicago twirler invariably emerged the victor."

"I want to serve notice on the experts who pick an all-star team that if they leave 'Three-Fingered' Brown off same they will have me on their back."

Another fan who is evidently a great admirer of Lajoie, writes, "Lajoie, in his prime, could play second base better with one hand than any player I have ever seen at that position could with two. An all-star team without Larry would be like Hamlet without the melancholy Dane."

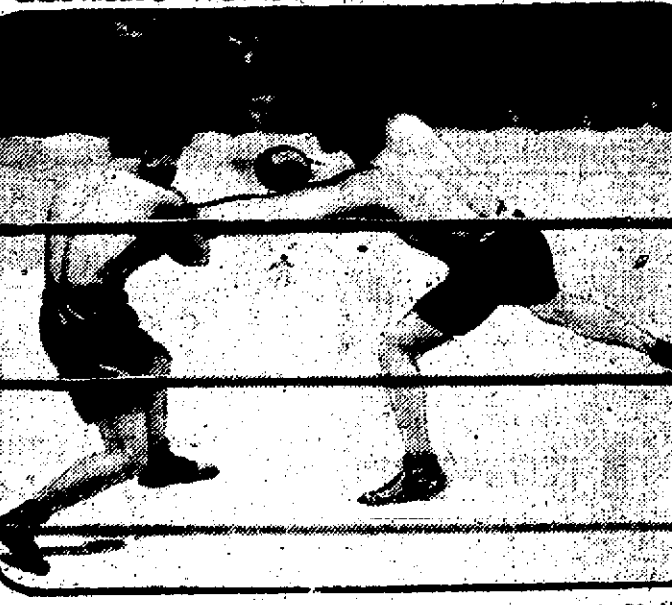

"Leaving Speaker off an all-star team is like having a Christmas tree without any presents. Where do the experts get that stuff and how do they get that way," pens an admirer of Speaker.

All of which gets us back to the opening paragraph, in which it was said, picking an all-time, all-star team was merely a matter of individual opinion. It is impossible to have the world agree with you.

Miller Huggins of Yankees Worries Over Much Vaunted Pitching Staff

By NEA Service
New York, Mar. 7.—Despite the fact that a year ago Miller Huggins boasted he had the best pitching staff in the American League, that department is now his one big worry.
Carl Mays, figured to be a big winner in 1922, failed, and his status for the coming season is very uncertain. American League batters insist that Mays has lost much of his effectiveness, that his fast underhand ball no longer breaks down as once it did.
The question also arises as to whether or not Sam Jones has the temperament to pitch winning ball on a pennant-winning club. With nothing at stake Jones has always been a world-beater. However, the strain of pitching for a pennant winner seems to tell on him.

Two Yankee Failures Of 1922 Only Veterans Signed For Coming Season

By NEA Service
New York, March 7.—Only two Yankee veterans are signed for the coming season. They are Carl Mays and Babe Ruth, the big disappointments of 1922. Both are holdovers and it is lucky for them they are.
Mays led the American League pitchers in 1921, and twirled great ball in the big series with the Giants. Ruth was the sensation of 1921 in swat circles, with 40 home runs, setting a record that batters will be shooting at a long time.
Naturally, when it came to signing contracts for 1923, both were in a position to dictate terms to the club. Each signed a two-year contract extending through 1923.
It is said that Ruth's contract calls for $52,000 a year, which is paid to the slugger in weekly installments of $1,000 throughout the year. Mays is said to have gotten $15,000 a year for two years.
Mays and Ruth were the "busts" of 1922. Mays failed to pitch winning ball at any stage of the race. Ruth was away below form and lost about 10 weeks of play because of suspensions.
Were it not for the fact that both Ruth and Mays had the New York club tied up for another year, each no doubt would have received a decided cut in his salary check.
The Yankee owners even went so far as to ask for waivers on Mays to save the sentiment of the other clubs. It is said Cincinnati was the only team that refused to waive. A fat contract and a bad disposition proved too big a handicap for most of the clubs.

Fancy Figure in Contract Works Hardship On McInnes

By NEA Service
Boston, Mar. 7.—The failure of a single American League club to refuse to waive on First Baseman "Stuffy" McInnes was a distinct surprise to sporting experts all over the country.
Perhaps the most surprised individual was McInnes himself.
"Can't understand," said McInnes, when the question was put to him, "and far from being through as a big leaguer. The only possible reason I can offer is the salary figure in my contract."
"When Cleveland bought me from Boston it was against my wishes. I wanted to finish my big league career in my home town. I agreed to go to Cleveland only under a two-year contract that called for a big raise in salary.
"I cannot help think it was my contract rather than my lack of ability that caused me to be waived out of the league."
McInnes refused to name the figure in his contract, but it is understood it called for $11,000 for 1923.
McInnes is 37 over 300 last year. He is still a great fielder, despite the fact that he is slowing up. He should have no trouble getting a major league berth and is certain to help some team.

STOCKER CATTLE CLOSING STRONG

Killing Cattle Mostly Steady For The Week. Stockers and Feeders Strong to 25c or More Higher. Little Change in Hogs.

South St. Paul, Minn., March 7.—Cattle marketings of around 12,700 last week showed a gain of about 2,000 compared with last week. Supply and demand in the case of killing cattle were about equally balanced and closing prices were mostly steady with last Saturday.

Beef steers of a good grade averaging 1,200 pounds topped the week's car lot trade in fat beefs going at $8.75. Bulk of fat steers and yearlings of common and medium grade sold from $7.00 to $8.00 commonest kinds $6.00 to $6.75. Butcher cows and heifers sold from $4.00 to around $7.50 with the bulk of fat heifers under $6.50 and bulk of fat cows under $5.50. Canners and cutters went from $2.50 to $3.75, bologna bulls $3.75 to $4.75.

Prices of veal calves broke sharply during the week. Closing prices of best lights ranged from $8.25 to $9.25 with the average cost around $8.50 or about $1.25 lower than last Saturday. Seconds finished largely at $4.50 to $5.50 with the average cost somewhat under $5.00.

Stocker and feeder trade strengthened and closing prices were strong to 25c or more higher than last Saturday, with intermediate grades showing the greater gain. Prices for the week ranged from $4.00 to $8.00 with the bulk of offerings selling at the close from $6.00 to $7.00.

Little net change has occurred in the hog market this week, bulk of 150 to around 250 lb hogs closing at $7.75 to $7.90; heavier butchers, $7.60 to $7.65, packing sows mostly $6.25 to $6.50. Best killing pigs closed at $7.90, stock pigs around $7.50.

Good and choice fat lambs closed at $14.00 to $14.40 seconds and heavy wethers $11.00 to $12.00, or weak to 25c lower for the week. Bulk of fat 100 to 130 lb ewes this week $7.25 to $7.75, heavier ewes $6.00 to $6.50.

INFORMATION IS QUASHED IN U. S. COURT

Not Properly Verified, Judge Holds When It Is Questioned

The information against Peter Siller of Mott, charged with violating federal liquor laws, was quashed in federal court here today on the ground that the information signed by United States District Attorney M. A. Hildreth was not verified and not supported by accompanying affidavit.

Because the matter affects many cases Federal Judge Miller dictated a written opinion in the matter. The question was raised by William Langer, attorney for Siller, who asserted that the information was faulty since it was not sworn to, nor was it accompanied by affidavit, and he did not believe the district attorney would claim personal knowledge of the facts alleged in the information. Mr. Langer said several other cases originating in this district would be affected by the ruling.

Alex Saborsky of McLean county and John Schimke of Merton county pleaded guilty to violating the Volstead act and were fined $25 each. When the trial of C. R. Jones of Bismarck would start appeared problematical, because his attorneys are engaged in other matters.

FARGO REPORTS FIVE CASES OF SLEEPING SICKNESS

Fargo, Mar. 7.—There were five cases of sleeping sickness reported at the St. Luke's hospital in this city today, according to a survey made at noon. One case, which was reported at St. John's hospital, is today reported as nearly recovered.

DEATH OF AGED COUPLE HAPPENS 36 HOURS APART

Waukegan, Minn., Mar. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Obadiah Blakesley, 63 and 60 years, will be buried in a twin grave here Thursday. The couple, residents of this section for 13 years, died 36 hours apart. Mr. Blakesley died after a long illness and his wife succumbed from the shock. The couple formerly lived at Creston, Ia. Six children survive.

OLD TRAIL WILL BE MODERN ROAD

New Orleans, Mar. 7.—The Old Spanish Trail, a national highway from Jacksonville, Fla., to Los Angeles, Calif., along the Gulf Coast and through the territory immediately north of the Mexican border, is destined to include several sections of road the equal of which will not be found in the United States, if plans of good roads enthusiasts interested in the project are carried out.

Secretary of War Weeks recently notified the New Orleans Association of Commerce that the War Department and the Department of Agriculture had reached an agreement whereby that section of the highway from New Orleans through the Louisiana marshes to the Mississippi coast had been placed on first priority as a federal aid project.

The War Department is deeply in-

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love the "Fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." A teaspoonful never fails to clean the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works for all the souring food and nasty bile out of the stomach and bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California" or you may get an imitation of syrup.

STARTING THE FLOW OF BOOZE TO AMERICA

Wharves in Nassau, Bahama Islands, are piled high with cases of liquor ready for transport to the "booze fleet" in the harbor. This photo gives some idea of the amount of liquor ready for the booze runners who scoff at the idea of capture by revenue agents.

terested in the highway from a military viewpoint.

It is estimated that a road through the marshes strong enough to withstand any gulf storm and to bear the weight of artillery would cost from $300,000 to $400,000 a mile, including the necessary bridges. This would make the cost of the twenty miles to the Rigolets, one of the outlets of Lake Ponchartrain, approximately $8,000,000. It would necessarily be of special construction and so heavy as to require a minimum of repair.

Construction of the marsh would provide New Orleans with a highway to the north and east. The only way of entering the city now, if motorists do not drive west to Baton Rouge and from there to New Orleans, is to ferry across Lake Ponchartrain, a water journey requiring at least two hours by the shortest route.

Construction of the Florida section of the Spanish Trail is well under way and that state, with federal, state and county funds, now is building a broad, heavy concrete highway from Jacksonville to Pensacola, a distance of more than 375 miles. The highway will parallel the Seaboard Air Line railway from Jacksonville to River Junction, and the Louisville & Nashville from River Junction to Pensacola.

FALLING MARKS CONVERTED INTO GOODS QUICKLY

Hamburg, March 7.—Germans have slowly learned that it is unwise to save marks while they are falling so rapidly in value. Even servants earning very small wages have adopted the plan of converting their money immediately into something which has real value. Such persons seldom have enough to buy foreign money, so they acquire articles which will always be in demand. Furthermore, they usually buy these purchases made in some small town, where prices are lower than in the great centers which know more about international exchange operations.

The cook in one American family in Hamburg recently told her mistress she was investing her earnings in furniture, which she had ordered a cabinet-maker in her native village to manufacture. She had bought the wood at a bargain, and the man was doing the work very cheaply in his spare time.

While the cook was not betrothed, and did not know that she would marry, she explained to her mistress that her chances will be much brighter when it become known that she could furnish a home attractively.

TEMPERATURE OF 114 REPORTED

Chicago, Mar. 7.—The American Medical Association as yet has received no report of the abnormal temperature of 114 degrees or higher declared to have been registered in the case of Miss Evelyn Lions of Escanaba, Michigan, who nevertheless retains her rationality and appetite.

At the offices of the Association it was said today that the breaking of the physicians' thermometer last night when the patient complained of feeling more feverish seemed exceedingly doubtful as having been caused by body temperature. It was explained that of course, bursting of the tube from expanding mercury would result from undue heat such as immersing the bulb in boiling water.

While instances of 114 or 115 degrees or higher have been reported in the past, it was said that these may or may not have been authentic, and that a temperature of 114 is extremely abnormal.

GIVEN TIME TO MAKE UP THEFT

Dickinson, N. D., March 7.—John Grinsten, farmer of the Hallday community, pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling grain belonging to his landlord, when brought before Judge Thomas H. Pugh at the court chambers here last Saturday by Sheriff Brown and State Attorney Johnson of Dunn county. Judge Pugh deferred sentence for a period of 60 days to give Grinsten an opportunity to raise and pay back the amount embezzled. At the expiration of that time sentence will be passed. In such cases the penalty ranges from three to five years in the penitentiary.

Grinsten, according to his neighbors, has always been a hard working man and has borne a good reputation, consequently his arrest came as a great surprise.

INDIGENT IMMIGRANTS WILL BE REFUSED ENTRY

Sydney, N. S. W., March 7.—The federal government has decided to communicate with the Italian government and make it known that Australia cannot permit the entry of indigent immigrants, as the result of the concern caused by the recent unexpected arrival of a ship-load of Italians and the announcement that many of their countrymen, led here by false prospects, were likely to become charges upon the state.

The federal government has the power under the immigration law to control the influx of aliens and this authority is to be exercised as is necessary to protect the Australian public, it has been announced. Although the New South Wales government refused to aid the large number of aliens who have just arrived, the grave fears as to their future have proved unjustified, as most of them found employment within a day or two after landing. Each state has a fairly large Italian population and those who were in a position to do so, have come to the assistance of their countrymen.

Sour Stomach

Best Relieved by Chewing a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet—No Water Needed—Carry Them Loose in Your Pocket.

What the average person needs in this day and age is the balanced stomach sweetener that he can take at any time, at any place and get relief right away. This effect is had with one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. No matter what you eat or drink, if the stomach sour, gets gassy, seems to blot and press against the heart, if it hitches and heartburn makes you miserable, try these tablets. The moment they reach the stomach they neutralize the acids, they give the stomach the alkaline effect it is craving for, and thus you soon feel good, the stomach is settled and the faults of indigestion are thus corrected. You may now eat pie, cheese, sausage, pickles, if you get a 60 cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets today at any drug store.—Ad.

MANY WAYS TO CATCH YOU FOR INCOME TAXES

Did You Receive Alimony During Year, Is Question Asked by Collector

The following statement is issued by Gunder Olson, Collector of Internal Revenue, Fargo, District of North Dakota.

Did you receive alimony during the year 1922? Were you successful in a breach of promise suit entered against a former admirer?

Personal questions very, but important to those to whom they apply in the preparation of an income tax return for 1922. Amounts received as alimony are not taxable income. Such payments do not have to be included in the income tax return of the person receiving them, nor may they be deducted from the gross income of the person paying them. In this respect, payment of alimony may be likened to a personal or living expense, which is not deductible. However, a woman who has won a breach of promise case, or has accepted out of court a settlement of a heart balm, must include the amount in her income tax return. The Bureau of Internal Revenue has ruled in such cases that the amount received "is not to be regarded as a return of capital, since the benefits of which the insured party was deprived were merely anticipatory."

Members of a labor union may deduct as a business expense dues paid to such organizations during the year 1922. Such dues are held by the Bureau to be necessary expenses incident to the earning of their wages. A member of a labor union who, while on strike, receives payment from an organization must include it in his income for the year such items.

The taxpayer who in 1922 recovered damages for defamation of personal character need not include in his return such amount, inasmuch as it has been held to be non-taxable income. The revenue act specifically exempts amounts received through accident or health insurance, or under workmen's compensation acts as compensation for personal injuries or illness, plus any additional amount received by suit or agreement in such cases.

To avoid penalty, returns should be filed on or before midnight of March 15. Free advisory service in the preparation of the forms is offered at the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, at Fargo, and branch offices at Grand Forks, Devils Lake, Minot, Williston, Valley City, Jamestown, Bismarck, Dickinson, Wahpeton, and Grafton.

THRESHERMEN JOIN FORCES

Fargo, Mar. 7.—H. T. Monson, Fargo, was elected president at the closing session of the North Dakota Brotherhood of Threshers yesterday. Other officers elected were: John A. Berggren, Lake Park, Minn., vicepresident; R. D. Merrill, Fargo, secretary-treasurer; C. J. Roberge, Enderlin, member of executive committee, one year; P. Q. Tulp, Chaseley, N. D., member executive committee, two years. D. C. Degman of Enderlin, N. D., is a holdover member of the executive committee.

Mr. Merrill is connected with Nichols & Shepard Threshing Machine company, Fargo, and will take active charge of organization work for the brotherhood for the coming year. The association aims to build up its membership to at least 500 by 1924.

CAPITALS BIT BY WILD CATS

The Wild Cats took the honors at the local bowling alley Tuesday night when they cracked the maples for a total of 2579 and took two out of three games from the Capitals. They should have taken all three games but due to a little tough luck in the last game they were forced to lose it by a close margin. Pat Donahue of the Capitals was high man of the evening for three games with a total of 562 while M. C. McGowan of the Wild Cats was high for a single game with 215. ## BROOKLYN YOUTH NEARLY FLOGGED TO DEATH IN FLORIDA CAMP, CHARGE

Fargo, N. D., Mar. 7.—Abuse, brutal floggings, mistreatment and death are common experiences in the Putnam Lumber company's prison stockade near Clara, Fla., according to an article in "The Golden Age," a fortnightly Brooklyn, N. Y., publication. The article, "A Hebrew in Christian Florida," is by Isaac Herman Schwartz.

It reads like a page out of the charges made against the system by G. Grimson, states attorney for Cavalier county, North Dakota, who has been investigating the death in the same prison camp of Martin Tabert, 22-year-old Munich, N. D. lad, who succumbed to abuse received there, according to charges.

After telling how he was arrested for riding on a freight train into Tallahassee and given a sentence of $25 fine or 90 days (the same sentence that Tabert drew for the same offense), Schwartz describes how the sheriff delivered him to the prison camp in an automobile; and continues:

"After supper the men were locked in the wooden stockade which served for jail and sleeping quarters. They crowded about me telling me I had come to a veritable hell. They showed me their hands puffed and blistered.

Whipped Men Show Bruises.

"Several had been whipped that day and they exhibited their backs, red and swollen." After discussing things with the older prisoners Schwartz found that a negro who "died a few days before at the Tallahassee jail, died as a result of bad treatment at this camp. The narrative continues:

"At 5:30 a. m. the gong rang for us to rise. My head was nearly bursting, but I managed to get into my clothes and form in line with the others. Two tubs of water in front of the eating shed furnished the daily toilet; but the time for eating was so short that even this luxury was to no avail. No towel, no soap; a dip of the hands in the tubs—and then to 'breakfast.'

After describing the unfit food which he says they were given Schwartz tells about the work:

"Worked in Water." "It rained hard that first day, but we were forced to work to our knees in water and mud. After dinner Captain Higginbottom appeared and whipped two of the prisoners. (This is the same man who whipped Tabert shortly before his death, according to charges by Mr. Grimson.) He used a heavy strap four feet long, five inches wide and fully a half inch in thickness. I never fully appreciated Tolstoy's description of the floggings in Russia until that moment.
